The President Talks---War and Peace

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson, pressing Hanoi for an early and serious response to Vietnam peace efforts, is also bearing down on military problems in conferences at the U.S. Pacific command post.

Johnson's schedule today centered on a visit to the hilltop headquarters of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, the Pacific commander in chief who will retire in July. The President said he wanted to talk about the military situation in Vietnam with Sharp and his designated successor, Adm. John S. McCain.

New Prod

The President gave North Vietnam a new peace prod Monday, soon after arriving in Honolulu.

As friends and critics vied for attention with shouts, chants and placards—the friends clearly were more numerous—Johnson reviewed peace efforts in an address from the steps of Iolani Palace, seat of the Hawaiian government. These efforts focus at this stage on finding a mutually acceptable preliminary meeting site.

Declaring "precious time is being lost," Johnson said:

"For us, this is not a propaganda exercise. We have sent serious and considered messages aimed at bringing about the earliest possible contact.

"What is needed today is an equally serious reply, reacting to our proposals for neutral sites or offering additional suggestions of neutral capitals where both of us have representatives and communications."

Lack of Faith

Several hours after Johnson spoke the official North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan said the United States showed "lack of good will" in turning down two sites Hanoi has proposed, Warsaw and Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

A Nhan Dan article broadcast from Hanoi flung back in the President's face his offer in the past to send U.S. negotiators anywhere at any time for talks.

"This statement is big-sounding and allows no misunderstanding," the article said. "Yet, after making many such statements the Johnson administration now changes tune."

While here, Johnson said, he would discuss what he termed the twin paths to peace with the top military command and, on Wednesday, with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea, a somewhat restive ally concerned about American steadfastness in the Pacific.

Park was flying in from Seoul tonight.

Johnson is expected to remain in Hawaii until Thursday. He is living about 10 miles outside the city at the seaside estate of the widow of the late millionaire industrialist Henry J. Kaiser.

Meanwhile, North Vietnam announced two high-level appointments today arousing speculation in Saigon that they would be Hanoi's representatives at peace talks with the United States.

Hanoi broadcast the announcement that Xuan Thuy had been appointed a government minister and that Tran Quang Huy had been named chairman of the cultural and educational board of the premier's office.

Negotiating Team

Analysts of North Vietnamese affairs in Saigon, assessing the titles given the two men and their background, speculated that Thuy might head Hanoi's negotiating team and Huy might be its chief spokesman.

Thuy, 55, also known as Nguyen Xuan Thuy, was foreign minister of North Vietnam from 1963 to 1965 and more recently has been a member of the Communist Party central committee secretariat and head of the central committee's foreign relations department.

Huy, 46, has been deputy director of the central committee's propaganda and education —agitprop—committee, also known as the propaganda indoctrination department, and was an alternate member of the central committee.

MEETINGS — President Lyndon B. Johnson (L) flew to Honolulu, for top-level strategy discussions on U.S. policy in southeast Asia. President Johnson was expected to confer with Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp (LC), commander-in-chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific, and Adm. John C. McCain (RC), commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe, who will succeed Adm. Sharp when he retires. An all-day meeting tomorrow with South Korean President Park Chung-Hee is a key reason for the President's trip. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mayor Praises Eugene

Mayor Raymond Garraghan last night was the main speaker at the opening of the McCarthy for President headquarters.

The headquarters — the first to be opened for any presidential candidate in the 28th Congressional District—unlocked its doors officially last night at 705 Broadway, at the corner of Liberty Street.

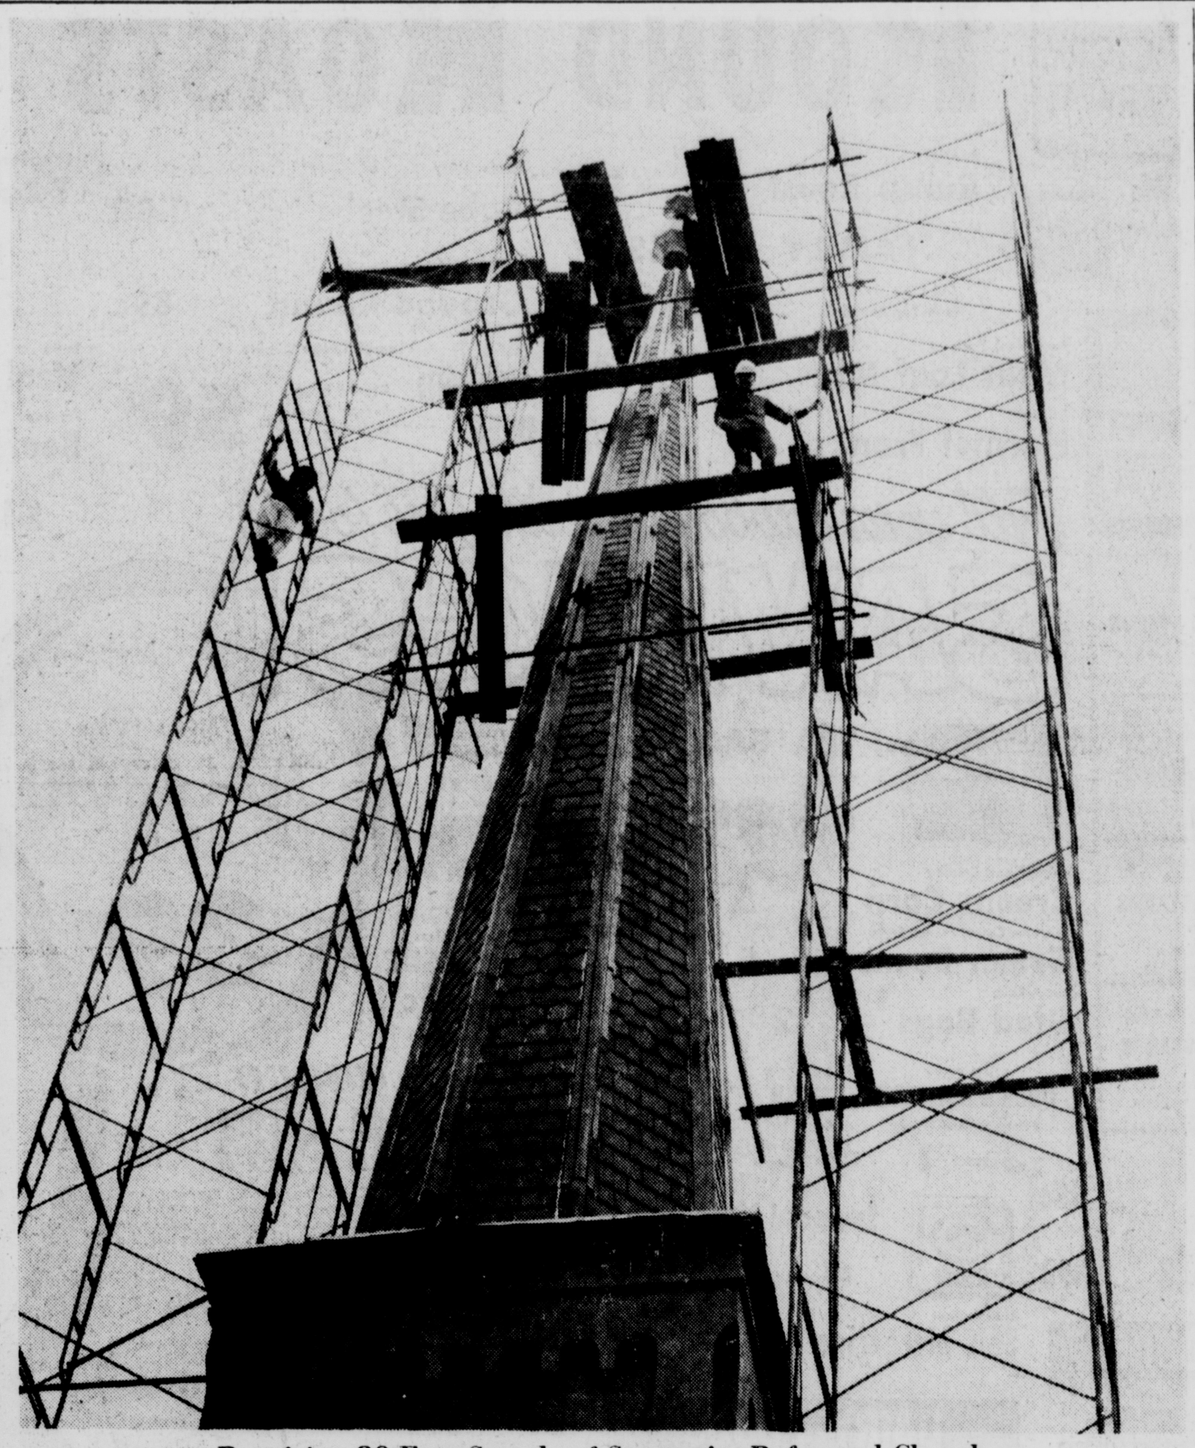

The headquarters is under the auspices and will be manned by members of the Ulster County Coalition for a Democratic Alternative. The McCarthy office will be open full time, under the direction of John Robison, of New Paltz, who came here after working for the Minnesota senator in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Mayor Garraghan told the audience of cheering McCarthy supporters: "We have a good product in Sen. McCarthy and, when you have a good product, you're in business."

Maintaining that "America is at the crossroads," the mayor said he feels strongly that McCarthy has the answers to the country's many problems.

"He knows the Vietnam situation is entirely wrong," said Garraghan. "He pictured a workable program for this country in 1963 and he speaks the same today as he did then—on the war, on our gold and on our dollar. And I know personally that he has the backing of a lot of independent Republicans and independent voters. When he is nominated there is no question he will win and win big."

Garraghan joined other speakers at last night's opening, including Kingston CDA chairman Peter Grant and candidates for delegates to the Democratic National Convention, Tobie Geertsema of Woodstock, and Dr. John H. Hain of New Paltz, in insisting that the Republicans do not have a candidate and that the American people will not vote for Nixon or Rockefeller, whose administration as governor has been marked by "high expenditures and budget problems."

4 Planes Down Over North Viet; Two in Collision

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — The air war against North Vietnam cost the United States four more planes Monday, two shot down over the southern panhandle and two lost when they collided in the air, military sources said today. Five of the fliers were rescued and one was lost.

A U.S. spokesman suggested the North Vietnamese may be moving more antiaircraft guns south to counter the increase in American bombing of the panhandle since President Johnson banned raids farther north.

Heavy Fire

The two planes shot down were Air Force F105s and both were hit near Dong Hoi, about 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone. The U.S. spokesman said antiaircraft fire around Dong Hoi was extremely heavy and possibly the enemy had been installing new weapons positions in the panhandle area.

Since President Johnson halted U.S. bombing north of the 20th Parallel on April 1 in an attempt to open peace discussions with Hanoi, U.S. pilots have more than doubled their usual number of daily raids on the panhandle.

One of the F105 pilots, Col. David W. Winn, 44, of Minneapolis, Minn., maneuvered his crippled Thunderchief 100 miles south over the South China Sea, bailed out at 18,000 feet, and was picked up by a "jolly green giant" helicopter.

The pilot of the second F105 is listed as missing in action.

Military sources said two Navy F4 Phantoms from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf collided southeast of Vinh, a North Vietnamese city about 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone, but all four crewmen parachuted into the gulf out of reach of enemy ground troops. Navy helicopters quickly rescued them.

The four planes raised the total number lost in the air war against North Vietnam to 825. They were the first planes reported down in the North in two weeks, since an Air Force F4 was downed April the day after Johnson's curtailment order.

Overcast skies spawned the lingering northeast monsoons limited U.S. pilots to 88 missions against North Vietnam Monday, a big drop from the 143 the day before.

For the 12th consecutive day, the American bombers stayed below the 19th Parallel, with the northernmost penetration a strike by Navy bombers on a causeway one mile below the parallel.

9 Missions

Other attacks were made on supply routes, antiaircraft sites, and truck convoys.

Over South Vietnam, Air Force B52 bombers flew nine missions against enemy buildup, supply, service and recuperation areas along the Cambodian border 56 to 59 miles northwest of Saigon and in the A Shau Valley west of Hue.

South of the A Shau Valley in the central highlands, a North Vietnamese attack was reported near the Cambodian border and a U.S. spokesman warned "This is a potentially hot area."

After a heavy five-minute mortar barrage, the enemy "opened up from all sides" with automatic weapons and small arms Monday on a company of American infantrymen.

The Americans pulled back to their patrol base half a mile south of the spot where they came under attack in mountainous jungle 19 miles west of Kontum City and 15 miles from the Cambodian border.

2nd Breakin Hits Uptown

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A second major burglary in the Pearl Street Extension area of the Town of Ulster was under investigation today by Kingston State Police BCI officers.

May Be Same Ones

Authorities theorize the same thieves who burglarized the home of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Kakoullis, well-known city restaurateur, at 441 Pearl Street Extension Easter Sunday night, committed the burglary at the home of Jack Goldstein at 435 Pearl Street Sunday night.

It was learned that jewelry, furs and cash taken from the Goldstein home was valued between $6,000 and $7,000. The sheriff's office reported yesterday that jewelry valued up to $10,000 and $1,200 in cash had been stolen from the Kakoullis residence in addition to a 38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver.

The breakin at the home of Goldstein, who is president of the ERA Electrical Construction Corp. on Pearl Street Extension, was discovered Monday on his return from Long Island where he visited over the weekend.

State Police were notified and an investigation was started.

The boldness of the intruders at the Goldstein residence was evidenced by the fact that they took a ladder belonging to the Goldsteins' and placed it against a window about eight or ten feet off the ground. The window was forced open, Goldstein said, and the burglar, or burglars made their way into the house through an office on the main floor.

Goldstein said a pet dog in the house evidently didn't bother those involved in the burglary. After gaining entrance to the residence the thieves made their way to an upstairs bedroom where they took a mink jacket from a closet and before leaving took jewelry that had been left in boxes.

According to Goldstein the loot consisted of two diamond clasps, the mink jacket, pearls, and two expensive wrist watches and other personal items. He placed a value on the jewelry and cash taken between $6,000 and $7,000.

At the Goldstein home other jewelry including an expensive diamond wrist watch and about $2,000 in cash had been left untouched. Goldstein said the window through which entry was gained is in the rear of the house in a corner where it could not be seen from the street.

Other Probe Continues

While the State Police BCI took over the investigation of the Goldstein breakin, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers continued the investigation of the Kakoullis burglarly, which was committed in the absence of the family who discovered the burglary on their return home at about 10:15 p. m. Sunday from a local theater.

Bowers reported that entry to the restaurateur's home Sunday night was made through a rear door which the owner said was locked. Dresser drawers were ransacked and jewelry and cash was taken from boxes in the upstairs rooms.

Kakoullis, who operates the Park Diner and is co-owner with Leo Larios of Jo-Al's Restaurant on John Street, said yesterday that several pieces of jewelry taken by the thieves were valued at approximately $10,000. He also said that about $1,200 in cash was taken.

After the burglary was reported by Kakoullis, investigation was started by Deputy Sheriffs Harold Duncan and Robert Jordan.

Father Protests---Brick Through Window

A Kingston father protested against his son's being inducted into the Army this morning by throwing a brick through the window of the induction center on Broadway as the youth was boarding a bus to Albany with 31 other inductees.

According to city police, Michael Cahill, 39, of 157 Bruyn Avenue, threw a brick through a plate glass window of the U.S. Selective Service office at 496 Broadway shortly before 7 a. m. this morning. Witnesses said the man threw the brick and then became loudly vocal in his protesting of his son's induction into the Army. He was restrained by his son, James, 20, until police arrived.

According to police, the elder Cahill, a truck driver, became even more violent when police tried to restrain him. He allegedly fought with the police, biting one officer and kicking another in the ankle. He was finally subdued and taken to city jail charged with criminal mischief, harassment, third degree assault and resisting arrest.

A spokesman from the Selective Service office said that no one was hurt by the brick but that the object narrowly missed a youth who was in the office filling out forms for induction.

"It's surprising the damage one of those bricks can cause," an employe said. "There's glass all over this office."

Confusion reigned around the selective service center for some time after Cahill's brick was launched. The Freeman interviewed witnesses, many of whom thought it was a riot. There were more than 100 persons milling around in front of the broken window.

Some persons thought outside agitators had come to town on the bus that was parked near the center. Actually, the bus was being used to transport the 32 inductees to Albany where they will be sworn in and then shipped to Fort Dix, N. J., for basic training.

The 100 persons were comprised mostly of relatives and friends of the youths going into the service. The 32 inductees represents one of the highest monthly totals in Ulster County in recent years. Until recent increases in draft quotas the norm had been about a dozen per month.

A spokesman for the Selective Service told The Freeman he was not sure what course the federal government might take in the wake of today's incident. The window is expected to be repaired but there is a possibility that all windows will be boarded up in the future to prevent a recurrence of today's incident.

U.S.-Russian Race to Moon Intensifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western space experts believe the latest linkup of two Russian satellites has provided the Soviets with technical knowledge to move forward with two programs: to send men to the moon and to build a manned space station for military purposes.

The next step, expected soon, should be space dockings involving manned ships—a feat accomplished by America's Gemini astronauts as early as March 1966.

It is believed the Soyuz 1 flight last April was to have been the first Soviet space linkup. But the plans were upset when the spacecraft developed control and parachute problems that killed the cosmonaut pilot, Vladmimir M. Komarov.

While the Soyuz ship was being redesigned, the Soviets used the unmanned Cosmos 186 and 188 flights last October to gain their initial docking experience. They duplicated the exercise Monday with Cosmos 212 and 213.

The repeat may have been necessary because of problems which cropped up on the October test. American specialists said the Russian radar on the main satellite (186) lacked the long-range precision of that on the Gemini craft.

They noted that Cosmos 187, originally intended for the docking, was too far off course, necessitating the launching of 188. The latter achieved an orbit just 15 miles behind its space partner.

Gemini pilots, who achieved more than a dozen dockings on four flights, often started out several hundred miles behind their Agena target satellites and in different orbits, using sophisticated radar systems to pursue their prey.

The paths of the Russian satellites involved in the linkups indicate they are preparatory flights for a man-to-the-moon mission. All were on courses ranging between 51.7 degrees north and 51.7 degrees south of the equator—which for Russia's launching purposes is an ideal course for starting for the moon.

The United States plans to use the brute force of the Saturn 5 —at least twice as powerful as anything yet flown by the Russians—to send three men to the moon with a single launch.

Present U.S. plans call for the first astronauts to hopefully be on the moon late next year. The general feeling in the West is that the Soviets can't do it before 1970.

However, there are indications the Russians may attempt a circumlunar flight late this year or early next—sending a manned craft once around the moon's backside and returning it to earth.

The linkups also are steps toward a long-stated Soviet goal of building a large space station in orbit. Its main goal would be military surveillance.

The Defense Department, meanwhile, is planning a separate military space called the Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL). Problems in defining program objectives and developing the hardware have put off the first two-man launch until 1971—nearly four years behind the original schedule. The cost also has escalated from the originally estimated $1.5 billion to nearly $2.5 billion.

The United States plans to use the brute force of the Saturn 5 —at least twice as powerful as anything yet flown by the Russians—to send three men to the moon with a single launch.

Present U.S. plans call for the first astronauts to hopefully be on the moon late next year. The general feeling in the West is that the Soviets can't do it before 1970.

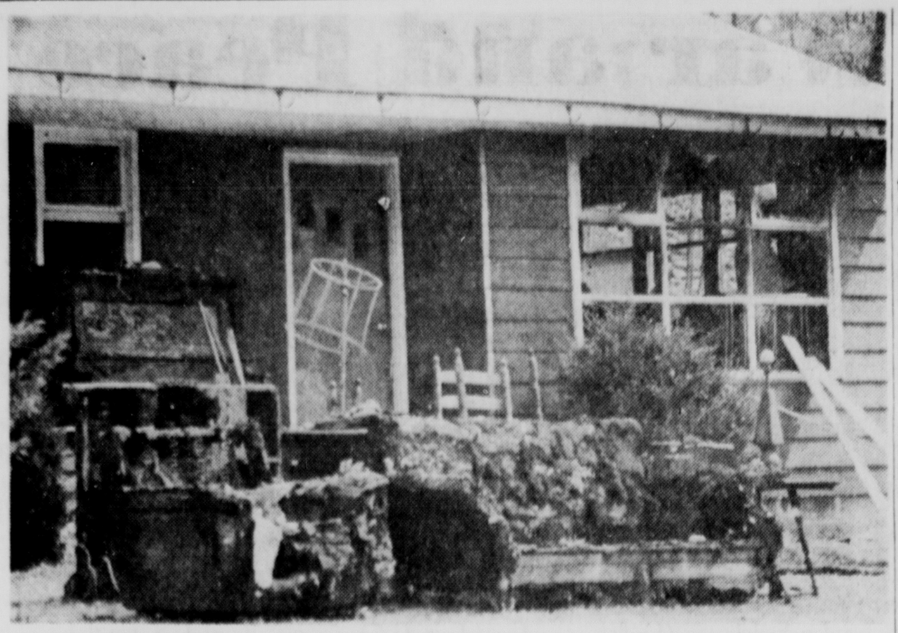

However, there are indications the Russians may attempt a circumlunar flight late this year or early next—sending a manned craft once around the moon's backside and returning it to earth.

The linkups also are steps toward a long-stated Soviet goal of building a large space station in orbit. Its main goal would be military surveillance.

The Defense Department, meanwhile, is planning a separate military space called the Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL). Problems in defining program objectives and developing the hardware have put off the first two-man launch until 1971—nearly four years behind the original schedule. The cost also has escalated from the originally estimated $1.5 billion to nearly $2.5 billion.

MT. TREMPER FIRE — Phoenicia volunteer firemen fought flames that burned out the living room and kitchen areas of the Norman Wilber ranch type home in Mt. Tremper Monday afternoon. Photo shows damage caused by the flames. Mrs. Wilber said her son, David, 15, was at a relatives home across the road when he saw "one flash of fire." Firemen were summoned and on arrival they discovered flames sweeping through part of the interior of the house. Heavy smoke damage was reported throughout the residence. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. The alarm sounded at 12:10 p. m. and the fire units in charge of Chief Karl Bush returned to service before 1:30. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Onteora Board Candidates Needed

By LYNN MULVANEY

WANTED — Candidates for two seats on the Onteora Board of Education.

Some members of the board, which met last night, seemed somewhat perplexed by the total lack of interest in this year's school board election compared to last spring when 10 candidates made their bid for four vacant seats.

In Kingston too, where only one day remains in order to file petitions for school board candidacy, no one has come forth to place their name in nomination. All petitions are due by 5 p. m., April 17 at the Board of Education office at the George Washington School.

This year at Onteora election will be held May 8 to elect two persons to terms of five years each. To date no one has filed a petition for board candidacy, and only nine days remain in which to do so.

Twenty-five signatures are needed on petitions which have to be filed by April 24 at the Board of Education office.

The two seats to be vacated are presently held by Herbert Shultis who does not seek another term and Douglas Gross who was appointed to the board last November to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Lillian Bermant who was elected last year.

In order to retain his board seat beyond May 8, Gross would have to file a petition for candidacy.

The four successful candidates in last year's election were Charles Newcomb, Patrick Dodge, Jack Kahn and Mrs. Bermant. Others seeking board posts were Harry Castiglione, Arthur Sampson, Norman Wilbur, Herbert Epstein, Peter S. Tosi and Charles Jackson.

Registration day is scheduled for May 2 from 2 to 9 p. m. at the district's four poll centers.

The annual district election will take place May 8 from 2 to 9 p. m. at the district's four polling centers and a special meeting to canvass the votes will follow the poll closing.

A date was also rescheduled for the public hearing on the budget. It will be held Tuesday, April 23 at 8 p. m. in the central building.

In other business, the following persons were granted tenure: Ralph C. Breakell, assistant to the superintendent in charge of business affairs; Robert Carr, Carol Ann Countryman, Anthony Crucetti, Paul deLaura and Elaine Fineran of the secondary school faculty. Also, Suzanne Abramsky, Susanne Cottier, Ruth Ann Duryee and Marion Pesek of the elementary faculty.

The appointment of Dr. Herman Lowe as school psychologist, at a salary of $15,500 for the 1968-69 school year, was also approved.

Retirements and resignations from the following members of the staff were also accepted: Mrs. Sally Van Wagenen, Woodstock School, after 15 years in education, having taught at the school for the past 13 years, with regret.

Miss Carolyn Schrier, Woodstock School, with regret.

Also, Miss Emelia Amendola, Mrs. Mary Jane Weiderspiel, Bennett School; Mrs. Paula H. Blish, Bennett School; Miss Donna Brown and Mrs. Joy D. Bachor, Woodstock School.

Faculty appointments to begin Sept. 1 include: Robert Blackman, elementary teacher and George DeFine, elementary teacher

Approval was also given the hiring of Mrs. Betty Rice as substitute teacher for the remainder of the school year at $30 per diem and Joseph Porzio's appointment as custodian for the midnight shift at $3,950.

Listed among meetings announced is a Board Candidates Night, sponsored by the High School P-TA on April 30 at 8 p. m. in the Woodstock Elementary School.

Russian Folk Tale Played At School

"Fish in the Forest" was presented by the fifth grade class of Miss Doris Ives at the Grant D. Morse School, April 4.

Based on an old Russian folk tale, the play, announced by Michael Mecionis, concerns the problem of two poor peasants who become involved in the public interest by finding a treasure in the Count's forest. They figure out a way to hide the find but the gossipy wife, Olga, exposes their secret. Ivan, the husband, suspects this and proceeds to deceive the count by an ingenious and fanciful hoax.

The part of Ivan was played by Steven Bogert, and Olga was played by Wendy Dedrick. The count and countess were Edward Mower and Susan Stevens. The maids, friends of Olga's, were played by Theresa Dill, Lisa Ceryanek and Donna Myer. The soldiers and court officers were John Conway, Kenneth Overbaugh, Glen Hegner and Daniel Maher. The part of the peasants were taken by the rest of the class including Simon Mercer, the fiddler, who rendered the melody of The Volga Boatman.

DuBois Is Guilty In Robbery Case

Convicted of robbery in the third degree in connection with a daring money bag incident at the Kingston Shopping Plaza in the night of Dec. 30, 1967, Emerson "Tookie" DuBois, 19, of Broadway, was in the county jail today awaiting sentencing.

A county court trial jury who heard testimony during the trial yesterday, returned the verdict of guilty to County Judge Raymond J. Mino at 9 p. m. The defendant, who has been in custody since his arrest several weeks ago, was remanded to jail and sentencing was set down for May 1 at 11 a. m. by Judge Mino.

Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon prosecuted the case and DuBois was represented by Attorney J. Michael Bruhn.

DuBois had been indicted on charges of third degree robbery, third degree grand larceny and other counts after a grand jury investigation.

The indictment charged that DuBois accosted Mrs. George R. Bixby of Woodstock, manager of Nugent's Dress Shop at the Kingston Shopping Plaza, as she was carrying a bag containing about $960 of the store's receipts to the night depository of the State of New York National Bank branch.

Authorities said at the time that the man, wearing a ski mask, knocked the woman down and grabbed the money bag and fled. Mrs. Bixby's husband who was in his car waiting nearby saw what was happening and he gave chase in his vehicle but was stopped when the car hit another in the parking lot.

Manpower Program Topic for Chamber

Requests for financial and moral support of expanded Area Manpower Development activities in the community met with "good response" this morning at the monthly Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Peter W. Rakov, outlined the need for a full-time "well paid" employe of the Area Manpower Development Committee who could not only find employment for the unemployed and underemployed but could help candidates overcome "their fatalism in their own destiny and their lack of orientation about their future".

Rakov said the committee estimated it would need $10,000 from the Chamber to maintain such a placement and counseling program for the first year, with $7,000 to $9,000 of this amount going as salary for the counselor.

He also called upon the 45 members of the business community in attendance to provide 'more job opportunities."

The proposed expansion of the Manpower program will be voted upon at the Chamber board of directors meeting this Friday. During the question and answer period which followed the formal presentation, members indicated a desire to push forward with the proposal.

Dem Governors: Wait, See Stand On the White House Preferences

By WALTER R. MEARS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Democratic governors have decided not to tamper with "the events of history" in this explosive political year, agreeing instead to wait and see what happens before announcing preferences in the race for the White House.

They didn't even reach an accord that would have declared advance support for the man their party eventually nominates to run for president.

Even before their 2½ hour political talk Monday, the governors meeting in St. Louis acknowledged they could not possibly agree on a consensus candidate for the Democratic nomination that President Johnson said he would neither seek nor accept.

They matched their forecast.

A handful of Democratic governors declared their choices in advance of the conference which drew 17 of the 24 Democratic state executives. There were no new public commitments at that meeting.

Its major product: A statement rejecting any mass attempt by governors to step into the developing race between Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the latter still undeclared.

Instead, the governors agreed to wait and watch. Even that wasn't unanimous.

Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi abstained from the decision and Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia wasn't present when it was made.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey raised the question of an advance endorsement of the 1968 Democratic ticket, but dropped it when Southern governors objected.

"It appeared that there was no opportunity for unanimity of opinion," Hughes explained. Without unanimity, he said, a governors' pledge to support a party nominee would have been pointless.

The Deadend Clues

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Deadend clues to a man who vanished without a trace apparently confronted FBI agents today in their investigation of the sniper slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

False leads multiplied in the hunt for Eric Starvo Galt, a mysterious quiet-talking man whose last known address was a Birmingham rooming house. His former landlord said Monday he had identified drawings shown by FBI agents as resembling Eric Galt.

"It's him," said Peter Cherpes, 72, who runs a two-story Southside boarding house where an Eric Galt lived for six weeks last fall.

Galt's abandoned white Mustang was impounded last Thursday by the FBI in Atlanta. It fit the description of a car seen leaving the scene after King was killed April 4 by a sniper firing from a rooming house in Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis witnesses described the suspected assassin, who registered as John Willard at a rooming house opposite King's motel, as about six feet and sandy-haired and "a clean, neat man."

No trace of Willard has apparently been found.

An FBI alert for Eric Starvo Galt in a white Mustang was issued in Florida last Thursday, but was canceled. However, the FBI has continued a search for Galt's whereabouts or clues to his past.

After Cherpes disclosed what his boarder said of his work and background, Associated Press inquiries turned up blanks.

Is there a real Eric Starvo Galt? The FBI was asked, but declined comment. Neither would the FBI say why Galt was wanted, though the Florida alert had sought only to spot the man, not arrest him. No warrant had been issued then.

The man known as Eric Galt had said he was employed at a Mississippi shipyard, but there was no record of him. He claimed he held Louisiana driver's license six years ago, but no record was found in the files.

There are mysteries within the mystery: Galt left the Birmingham boarding house last Oct. 7 saying he had a ship job in Mobile, Ala., but in December, he turned in the keys to his safety deposit box at the Birmingham Trust National Bank.

In addition, a duplicate driver's license for Eric Starvo Galt was mailed to the Birmingham address March 1, nearly seven months after he left, and it apparently vanished. The Birmingham post office indicated no forwarding address was left for Galt.

Misleading Detroit Data: GAO

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office report says the Detroit antipoverty administration has given the government an inaccurate and misleading information on participants and tried to get financial credit for facilities that weren't used.

The report to Congress on a GAO audit also found "duplication of administrative effort and cost" in the Detroit program which it said the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity has been unable to correct. In this connection, the GAO, which is an arm of Congress criticized use of a Catholic church agency.

The 86-page report was released shortly after The Associated Press reported that the GAO, the Detroit city auditor's office and a state legislative committee all were looking into operations of the antipoverty agency—the Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development, headed by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The GAO already is at work on a new audit of the Detroit program. Its published report covered the 1965 and 1966 fiscal years.

Detroit has received about $50 million in federal antipoverty funds. Only New York and Chicago have gotten more. Detroit also is one of only two cities whose major antipoverty agency is an arm of city government rather than an independent nonprofit corporation. The other is Chicago.

The GAO said some participation figures provided by the Detroit agency—and on which the Office of Economic Opportunity had to rely for future planning—were inflated.

One report for a particular school program listed 7,539 participants. But in checking school-by-school enrollment figures, the GAO said it found 4,000 fewer participants.

The GAO said the Detroit Board of Education—to whom the mayor's committee contracted some antipoverty education programs—tried to get too much financial credit for classroom space it provided.

The city was required to contribute 10 per cent of the cost of antipoverty programs. Value of the space provided was allowed to count toward this contribution. The GAO said it checked $342,160 in claims and found only $71,855 was justified.

The Red Hook Budget Approved

Taxpayers of the Village of Red Hook will be paying three dollars more per thousand dollars of assessed valuation for the coming fiscal year.

Approval of a $121,069.08 total budget for 1968-69 was given following a public hearing last night at which only one taxpayer made an appearance.

Up $7,578.17 from last year, the real estate assessment went from $37 per thousand to $40 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

Mayor Ellroy Hand, commenting on the increase said, "if we are going to have things, taxes have got to go up."

Among the items named by the village clerk as accounting for the increase were a garage addition at a cost of $1,325; an increase of $2,400 for the police department and $638 in the highway fund.

The amount of the general fund totals $93,249.08 and the water fund, which is not taxable, is $27,820.

Revenues and money appropriated from surplus bring the total amount to be raised through real estate tax to $71,284.08.

Orange Collision Claims Third Life

An Easter Sunday afternoon two-car headon collision on the Quickway near Goshen in Orange County has claimed the life of a third victim. Four children injured in the mishap remained under treatment for multiple injuries at a Goshen hospital.

Authorities said that Mrs. Rita Watson, 36, of 3466 South Creek Road, Hamburg, died Monday night in Arden Hill Hospital in Goshen, of multiple injuries suffered as the result of the accident which caused the death of her husband, Dr. John Watson.

The other person killed in the crash was identified by Monroe State Police as Pedro Almeria Jr., 39, of Warwick, operator of one of the vehicles involved in the triple-fatality.

Two of the children who survived the crash were listed by state troopers as Richard Watson, 9, and Carolyn Watson, 8. They were reported in critical condition at the hospital. Three of the survivors underwent emergency surgery in efforts to save their lives.

Dr. Watson and Almeria were pronounced dead at the scene.

According to investigating troopers both vehicles involved in the grinding collision were wrecked and were towed from the scene.

Firemen from nearby communities went to the scene and worked with crowbars to open doors to extricate those trapped inside.

State Police Sergeant J. F. Kragh of Monroe and Trooper Martin Mulligan who investigated, said the car driven by Almeria was traveling west on the highway when it apparently crossed the center mall and was in headon collision with the Watson car.

The Watsons were on their way to Nutley, N. J. to visit with relatives, it was reported.

Representing the People

It has become quite clear now why the New York State Legislature, which is in recess until April 29, hasn't developed an income plan to support the upcoming state budget. The legislators were waiting for the "right" time to ram through a lush pension plan for themselves. They chose the day before their extended holiday vacation hopefully that in the meantime the taxpayers would forget all about the scheme.

The new pension plan allows legislators and legislative employes to retire on half pay after 20 years of "creditable service," which need include only five years service in the Legislature. It also may include war-time military service or any full or part-time service for any political subdivision of the state or for any public benefit corporation. This covers a lot of territory. Based on their current salary, legislators could retire at $9,000 a year.

Before going on vacation, the legislators also passed and the governor also signed bills for an urban renewal program designed to rebuild central city areas at a cost estimated at $6 billion. The plan gives the Urban Development Corporation, which it created, extensive powers to determine what areas will be rebuilt without regard to local zoning laws or whether or not its actions meet the approval of the local governing boards. Is there no such thing as home rule any more?

That's all the City of Kingston would need right now is for this new governmental outfit to come into the community and start knocking down more sections of the city. With the customary governmental delay and indecisions on completing a project, we would be a ghost town.

Now that the pension plan and the urban renewal program have been approved, we can look forward to more lip service at Albany about the judicious spending of the taxpayers' money.

The absurd performance of the legislators hardly could be called representative government.

O'Brien Joins Up

Lawrence F. O'Brien stuck to his job as Postmaster General as long as President Johnson was expected to run for renomination. O'Brien felt duty bound to the President. But when Johnson bowed out of the race for the nomination, O'Brien's loyalty was to the Kennedy clan, who had raised him to a confidential post at the White House in recognition of his service to the late President John F. Kennedy.

O'Brien's resignation was accepted at once by Johnson and the former Postmaster was free to follow the Kennedy star again, this time to devote himself to helping Senator Robert F. Kennedy reach the White House as President.

The fact that O'Brien cast his lot with Senator Kennedy is significant. O'Brien left a post in which he had won recognition as an efficient, able and loyal administrator. He could have stayed out the term and perhaps stepped into a big corporate post. Instead, he has returned to active politics.

The Kennedy team is immeasurably strengthened by the acquisition of this political operator. O'Brien managed President Johnson's campaign in 1964, just as he helped President Kennedy in 1960. His political connections across the country are unsurpassed. So are his political acumen and expertness. Just by O'Brien's coming, Senator Kennedy will gain with the professionals who will be impressed with OB'rien's judgment.

It could be said that O'Brien can make the difference in the race that will pit Kennedy against Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and especially Vice President Humphrey for the nomination. Nonetheless, the old adage that "One swallow doesn't make a summer" cannot be overlooked, politics being such a gamble.

Coming of Age

The growing awareness of youth so widely shown in activist movements around the world has had one result in Britain that will cause raised eyebrows in this country and elsewhere. That is the Labor government's plan to introduce legislation to lower Britain's legal age of majority from 21 years to 18.

It would mean that youngsters can marry at 18 without parental consent, that 18-year-olds will be able to enter into contracts, make wills, and inherit and dispose of property. But they will still not be permitted to vote. A study is being made to lower the voting age from 21 to 20 years.

The reasons for the change in the legal age of majority are of interest here. Better education, greater sophistication and affluence were among them. Also, and perhaps of most value, the present power of parents to forbid marriage was found to be not much value when so many lived away from home.

While the committee found that a marriage between people under 20 had three times the average chance of ending up in the divorce courts, the committee feared keeping the age at 21 would make the youngsters irresponsible. That is perhaps the best argument for the change. Changing mores have made it necessary in many instances.

"---Now as Far as the Republicans Are Concerned---"

David Lawrence Says

Site for Peace Talks Is Important to U.S.

WASHINGTON — There is more than meets the eye in the sparring between the United States and the government of North Vietnam over the selection of a site for peace talks. Thus far, the Hanoi government has favored places which are dominated by the communists. The United States wants the conference to be held in a neutral country, preferably in some capitol city in Asia.

The reasons are well understood in diplomatic circles but not by the public generally. For if the delegations were to meet in a location which is controlled by the communists, it would be difficult for the President or Secretary of State to be sure the confidential messages being sent to and from our envoys were not being intercepted. Likewise, the American government is insistent that the representatives of the press of the United States shall not be subject to any censorship or local restrictions.

Many people who are reading about today's effort to set up a peace conference are unfamiliar with what happened when the truce delegation of the United Nations met in July 1951 with the North Koreans. The first meeting convened within communist-held territory, and communist troops surrounded the conference. The impression sought to be conveyed was that the United Nations was "surrendering." After vigorous objections from the U. N., the conference was moved to a point on the dividing line between North and South. Discussions continued there for almost two years before an armistice was signed, but a peace treaty was never concluded.

Fearing a repetition of the same kind of tactics, the United States is wary of any conference held within communist jurisdiction. It is already apparent that the controversy over the mere picking of a site for the peace talks has furnished an opportunity for communist propaganda to be spread.

The North Vietnamese government in its latest statement charges, for instance, that the United States was guilty of bad faith in refusing to hold the conference at Reference is made to President Johnson's declaration places suggested by Hanoi, that he was willing to go "to any spot" to hold peace talks. But he meant, of course, any neutral location, and has since suggested Switzerland, India, Burma, Laos and Indonesia. Actually, the United States would prefer a site in Asia, as the people of that region are most concerned with the terms of a settlement and what it may mean to the future safety of each of the free countries.

Propaganda outbursts may be expected at every stage of the present controversy. The North Vietnamese government and its communist allies have been encouraged by the dissension within the United States to believe that the American people will consent to anything just to find an excuse to withdraw their troops.

"Peace talks," therefore, can be part of a propaganda war by the enemy. One thing is clear — the North Vietnamese are in no hurry and need time to reorganize and recuperate as they have been dealt some heavy blows in the war. But once the American presidential elections are over, the communists will probably be surprised to discover that American policy insofar as Southeast Asia is concerned will not have undergone any significant change.

Meanwhile, the morale of the South Vietnamese Republic is causing worry. The United States has heretofore repeatedly manifested an unswerving determination to protect all Southeast Asian countries against aggression by the communists. So any weakness emerging now could result in confusion within South Vietnam at the very time when an enlarged army is being mobilized to reduce the burden carried mainly by the American troops.

Sooner or later an international force will have to be established by the United Nations to keep peace in Asia or a collective arrangement will have to be set up with Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, South Korea and India contributing manpower for such a permanent force. Once an armistice in Vietnam is declared, the U. N. could take over the responsibility for supervision of the agreement which presumably will spell out the future obligations of North and South Vietnam.

McCarthy Wastes No Love On Kennedy or Humphrey

By PETER LISAGOR

WASHINGTON—Should Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy have to decide where to throw his support for the Democratic Presidential nomination, the choice is likely to be made with a painful reluctance.

McCarthy and his associates, increasingly smitten with the Presidential bug, scoff at the notion that he will eventually yield to the superior forces of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The Minnesota Democrat's showing in New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries, plus manifest strength in non-primary tests in Minnesota and Connecticut, has nurtured the belief in McCarthy's camp that he could wind up at the Chicago convention as the beneficiary, instead of the victim, of a brokered ticket.

Most professional politicians, however, believe that McCarthy will be compelled to make his peace with either Humphrey or Kennedy, even though the Minnesotan has said he would release his delegates, if he falters, to go where they might choose.

Though both are Minnesotans, McCarthy owes nothing to Humphrey. He has been his own man in Minnesota politics. When McCarthy first ran for the Senate in 1958, it was widely suspected that the nominally neutral Humphrey privately favored Mrs. Eugenie Anderson for the post.

In recent years, the relations between the two men have been correct, to use a diplomatic term connoting anything but a bosom companionship. McCarthy has felt that Humphrey parroted President Johnson on Vietnam and other issues with a slavish devotion beyond the call of duty, and has been heard to speak disdainfully of the Vice President.

McCarthy was said to have borne a deep resentment toward Humphrey because LBJ had passed him over to choose HHH as his Vice Presidential candidate. "Behind McCarthy's amiable face is a man who hates hard," a Humphrey man once said of McCarthy.

But in a crunch, would he throw his support to Kennedy, for whom he has developed an outspoken distaste?

The Kennedys have long memories, and for his part, Bobby remembered that McCarthy supported Lyndon Johnson over his brother in 1960. Also, in the Kennedy book, McCarthy's masterful nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson at the 1960 convention was construed as a stop-Kennedy act.

In 1964, when President Johnson was toying with McCarthy as a possible running mate, Kennedy's associates were quietly working to promote Humphrey for the second post.

In 1967 McCarthy had urged Kennedy to make the challenge to the President, but Bobby weighed the prospects and judged them to be almost suicidal. So McCarthy declared his candidacy last November and began a lonely journey, with only the Vietnam war issue to sustain him, to talk it up against LBJ and the war.

McCarthy was not loathe to point up Kennedy's reluctance and signs of "chicken" and worse broke out wherever RFK appeared, especially among his once-idolatrous clientele, the college students.

The Kennedy people thought that McCarthy was ambling along without direction or passion, and not making a properly slambang case against the war.

Their relations were not enhanced by McCarthy's entry into the Massachusetts primary, for it embarrassed Sen. Edward (Ted) Kennedy, brother of the New York candidate. When RFK finally announced after New Hampshire, the good will between him and McCarthy could be had for a nickel.

Thus, if McCarthy were obliged to make a choice between Humphrey and Kennedy, it would be a coin-flipping proposition, without enthusiasm and probably with disrelish. He and Humphrey have many mutual friends in Minnesota, and that might bring pressure upon him to turn what delegates he fully controlled over to the Vice President, in the opinion of some political observers.

By an ironic combination of geography and religion, McCarthy would have difficulty bargaining for the second spot on either a Humphrey or Kennedy ticket. Two Minnesotans on the ticket would eliminate that state's electoral votes for the Democrats, and two Catholics on the ticket would resurrect a moribund issue.

Hoover Lobbies to Control Training of All City Police

WASHINGTON—The general public doesn't know it, but J. Edgar Hoover has been lobbying effectively on Capitol Hill to put all police training in American cities under the FBI if they get any funds from the federal government.

Under the law, Hoover is forbidden to engage in politics. He is supposed to be under the jurisdiction of the Attorney General and keep aloof from Capitol Hill. Despite this, he has sent FBI agents up to key Congressmen to persuade them to give the FBI training jurisdiction over local city police. The "safe streets" bill allocates a certain amount of federal funds to help local law enforcement, and Hoover has demanded that no city get these funds unless the FBI has training authority over its police.

This runs counter to the Constitutional right of cities and states to handle their own local problems, and is also opposed by Attorney General Ramsey Clark and many Senators. Clark contends the FBI has enough to do without supervising local police training. Many Congressmen argue that the United States must not fall into the European pattern of a national police force, similar to the Deuxieme Bureau of France or the KGB of Soviet Russia.

The Hoover proposal is also opposed by the International Association of Police Chiefs, which has done an excellent job of correlating police training throughout the United States and Canada. Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, is a former assistant director of the FBI who nevertheless has incurred the wrath of J. Edgar Hoover because Tamm wants to keep police training local.

Various states have built up excellent training programs for their police, including California, Michigan, New Jersey and Connecticut. Florida, despite the meddling of Gov. Claude Kirk, who put the Wackenhut Detective Agency in charge of crime, has also made excellent progress.

Florida police are now taught the problems of sociology and race relations through the Florida Institute of Law Enforcement at St. Petersburg Junior College. The FBI, in contrast, has long been an unintegrated organization. Only recently have a few Negro agents been admitted.

Leading police chiefs resent the fact that Hoover discriminates against police officials who maintain their independence of the FBI. If they are too independent, they say, Hoover refuses to process their fingerprints or cooperate regarding information on interstate crime. The FBI operates two big computers in Washington which correlate information on stolen guns, stolen autos and wanted persons. This is a very important clearing house of crime information, which does not mean a national police force. However, Hoover has been known to withhold this information from police chiefs whom he considers too independent.

Opposed to Hoover on FBI police training have been some of the top police chiefs of the nation. Supporting him has been Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., a powerful member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Emanuel Celler, the Brooklyn Democrat who heads the House Judiciary Committee.

Ladybird Said No

The person who had most to do with LBJ's momentous decision not to run again was his wife. She had talked to him about not running for at least two years.

Frank Bell, former secretary of ex-Senator Clarence Dill of Washington State, tells how Ladybird viewed the subject during a visit with her at the LBJ Ranch.

Bell, incidentally, knew Johnson when Sen. Dill was in the House of Representatives and when Lydon Johnson was secretary to Rep. Dick Kleberg of Texas. At that time Bell reported to Dill: "There's a young fellow over there in Congressman Kleberg's office who's going places. A tall young fellow named Johnson."

Last summer Bell was down in Texas and dropped over to the LBJ Ranch, where he found the President receiving a long line of visitors. Instead of standing in line, Bell went over to sit with Ladybird under a tree.

"This time next year I suppose you'll all be in the thick of a hot campaign," he told her.

"Not if I have anything to do with it," said the lady whose opinions carry considerable weight with the President. "If I can prevent it, Lyndon will not run again. It will kill him. He couldn't last another four years. I've got Coolidge and Truman on my side. They withdrew. Lyndon drives himself so hard. He works until midnight every night. I don't think he could last another four years and I am going to make sure he doesn't try it."

Note—This column has reported that the President's health appears to be good, though he works longer hours than any other President I have covered.

LBJ Listened

Another friend who influenced the President to bow out was Horace Busby, his favorite speech writer. Several times the President had talked privately about retiring. Particularly when he was despondent he would vow not to seek another term. Then his mood would change and he would talk about reelection strategy.

Last month when the President was particularly aggrieved over the public misunderstanding of his motives, the failure of Congress to cooperate on taxes, and unfair attacks on him in the press, Busby encouraged the President to make an early decision, even wrote the historic speech in which he bowed out.

Note: Vice President Humphrey, in several conversations with the President, has urged him to reconsider his decision. The President, however, has insisted that his decision is irrevocable. He told Humphrey that at the right time he would use his influence to help HHH win the Democratic nomination.

Marines Not Properly Saluted

Day after day has passed and an America distracted by the city-burnings and rioting and the memorials to Dr. Martin Luther King has at the same time failed to properly salute our incredible 6,000 United States Marines who stood by our flag at Khe Sanh, God bless them.

General Eisenhower once exploded to Ernie Pyle: "I get so eternally tired of the lack of understanding of what the infantry soldier endures . . . I get so fighting mad because of the general lack of appreciation of real heroism — which is the uncomplaining acceptance of unendurable conditions — that I become completely inarticulate."

Or listen to Ernie Pyle himself: "All afternoon men kept coming around the hill, but the sag of their bodies speaks their inhuman exhaustion . . . Underneath, they are just guys from Brooklyn and Main Street and there is agony in their hearts . . . Their world can never be known to you, but if you could see them just once, for an instant . . . "

Unendurable conditions? Agony in their hearts? In our distractions we should pause to look carefully at the America of these Marines.

It was an America far from home. The hills around this America at Khe Sanh hid about 40,000 Oriental fanatics creeping forward, with their flashing knives and guns, in an ever-tightening circle. Every man from Brooklyn and Main Street knew the Oriental horrors that the screaming, clawing waves would mean to him. And there they stood. Not for a few minutes, not for a few hours or days, but for 11 solid weeks, the only thing each man did not know was when the ghastly waves would appear.

The enemy's dugouts and tunnels approached closer and closer to each surrounded objective. The guns and mortars, deeply dug into caves or employed in the hills and carefully camouflaged, are extremely hard to detect and even hard to destroy. We should be told, and we are entitled to know, that our highly publicized flash-and-sound ranging devices to locate enemy guns have proved to be one of the greatest technological failures to date in Vietnam.

Where did these men from Brooklyn and Main Street stand?

Before the horrible siege was lifted, more than 40,000 rounds of mortar, artillery and rocket fire fell on them in their tiny America and on the three nearby hill positions. The barrages that engulfed them like a flaming Niagara often fell for four agonizing hours at a time. They stood lit by no comet of glory. They stood trapped.

They stood where death, the agony of blindness and of cruel wounds that tear a friend and helper to pieces, inches from you, was their meat and drink, their fare. "If you could see them just once, for an instant . . . "

Many developed what the Marines call "the 1,000-yard stare," an unblinking, vacant look that reveals a shattered mind trying to come to grips with the horrors while the mesmerized eyes are fixed on the hills.

Food was short. Water was even shorter as shells perforated rubber storage tanks. While garbage workers staged strikes here in Memphis, New York and elsewhere, what about the problem where these men stood?

Six thousand Americans lived, slept and died in trash and the dreadful stinking heaps on heaps of unmovable garbage while the rats multiplied. An American officer friend of mine, blinded forever by a grenade at Khe Sanh, estimates that the number of rats clawing at our men multiplied at more than one for one within the first 10 weeks of the siege.

These vicious rodents, disease, steel splinters from exploding shells, rockets and grenades killed more than 200 Marines and wounded 1,600—nearly a third of the Marines' strength. They could only watch each other die.

Our public never heard of Vincent Day of Massachusetts, Leonard Paine of Florida, Otto Lahr of Illinois, Richard Casey of California and so many others who died in that America. But we have a hallowed monument in our country on which is etched:

"Not for Fame or Reward, not for Place or Rank, not lured by Ambition or goaded by Necessity, but in simple obedience to Duty as they understood it, these men suffered all, sacrificed all, dared all—and died."

Lest we forget, lest we forget.

Representing the People

It has become quite clear now why the New York State Legislature, which is in recess until April 29, hasn't developed an income plan to support the upcoming state budget. The legislators were waiting for the "right" time to ram through a lush pension plan for themselves. They chose the day before their extended holiday vacation hopefully that in the meantime the taxpayers would forget all about the scheme.

The new pension plan allows legislators and legislative employes to retire on half pay after 20 years of "creditable service," which need include only five years service in the Legislature. It also may include war-time military service or any full or part-time service for any political subdivision of the state or for any public benefit corporation. This covers a lot of territory. Based on their current salary, legislators could retire at $9,000 a year.

Before going on vacation, the legislators also passed and the governor also signed bills for an urban renewal program designed to rebuild central city areas at a cost estimated at $6 billion. The plan gives the Urban Development Corporation, which it created, extensive powers to determine what areas will be rebuilt without regard to local zoning laws or whether or not its actions meet the approval of the local governing boards. Is there no such thing as home rule any more?

That's all the City of Kingston would need right now is for this new governmental outfit to come into the community and start knocking down more sections of the city. With the customary governmental delay and indecisions on completing a project, we would be a ghost town.

Now that the pension plan and the urban renewal program have been approved, we can look forward to more lip service at Albany about the judicious spending of the taxpayers' money.

The absurd performance of the legislators hardly could be called representative government.

O'Brien Joins Up

Lawrence F. O'Brien stuck to his job as Postmaster General as long as President Johnson was expected to run for renomination. O'Brien felt duty bound to the President. But when Johnson bowed out of the race for the nomination, O'Brien's loyalty was to the Kennedy clan, who had raised him to a confidential post at the White House in recognition of his service to the late President John F. Kennedy.

O'Brien's resignation was accepted at once by Johnson and the former Postmaster was free to follow the Kennedy star again, this time to devote himself to helping Senator Robert F. Kennedy reach the White House as President.

The fact that O'Brien cast his lot with Senator Kennedy is significant. O'Brien left a post in which he had won recognition as an efficient, able and loyal administrator. He could have stayed out the term and perhaps stepped into a big corporate post. Instead, he has returned to active politics.

The Kennedy team is immeasurably strengthened by the acquisition of this political operator. O'Brien managed President Johnson's campaign in 1964, just as he helped President Kennedy in 1960. His political connections across the country are unsurpassed. So are his political acumen and expertness. Just by O'Brien's coming, Senator Kennedy will gain with the professionals who will be impressed with OB'rien's judgment.

It could be said that O'Brien can make the difference in the race that will pit Kennedy against Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and especially Vice President Humphrey for the nomination. Nonetheless, the old adage that "One swallow doesn't make a summer" cannot be overlooked, politics being such a gamble.

Coming of Age

The growing awareness of youth so widely shown in activist movements around the world has had one result in Britain that will cause raised eyebrows in this country and elsewhere. That is the Labor government's plan to introduce legislation to lower Britain's legal age of majority from 21 years to 18.

It would mean that youngsters can marry at 18 without parental consent, that 18-year-olds will be able to enter into contracts, make wills, and inherit and dispose of property. But they will still not be permitted to vote. A study is being made to lower the voting age from 21 to 20 years.

The reasons for the change in the legal age of majority are of interest here. Better education, greater sophistication and affluence were among them. Also, and perhaps of most value, the present power of parents to forbid marriage was found to be not much value when so many lived away from home.

While the committee found that a marriage between people under 20 had three times the average chance of ending up in the divorce courts, the committee feared keeping the age at 21 would make the youngsters irresponsible. That is perhaps the best argument for the change. Changing mores have made it necessary in many instances.

Site for Peace Talks Is Important to U.S.

WASHINGTON — There is more than meets the eye in the sparring between the United States and the government of North Vietnam over the selection of a site for peace talks. Thus far, the Hanoi government has favored places which are dominated by the communists. The United States wants the conference to be held in a neutral country, preferably in some capitol city in Asia.

The reasons are well understood in diplomatic circles but not by the public generally. For if the delegations were to meet in a location which is controlled by the communists, it would be difficult for the President or Secretary of State to be sure the confidential messages being sent to and from our envoys were not being intercepted. Likewise, the American government is insistent that the representatives of the press of the United States shall not be subject to any censorship or local restrictions.

Many people who are reading about today's effort to set up a peace conference are unfamiliar with what happened when the truce delegation of the United Nations met in July 1951 with the North Koreans. The first meeting convened within communist-held territory, and communist troops surrounded the conference. The impression sought to be conveyed was that the United Nations was "surrendering." After vigorous objections from the U. N., the conference was moved to a point on the dividing line between North and South. Discussions continued there for almost two years before an armistice was signed, but a peace treaty was never concluded.

Fearing a repetition of the same kind of tactics, the United States is wary of any conference held within communist jurisdiction. It is already apparent that the controversy over the mere picking of a site for the peace talks has furnished an opportunity for communist propaganda to be spread.

The North Vietnamese government in its latest statement charges, for instance, that the United States was guilty of bad faith in refusing to hold the conference at Reference is made to President Johnson's declaration places suggested by Hanoi, that he was willing to go "to any spot" to hold peace talks. But he meant, of course, any neutral location, and has since suggested Switzerland, India, Burma, Laos and Indonesia. Actually, the United States would prefer a site in Asia, as the people of that region are most concerned with the terms of a settlement and what it may mean to the future safety of each of the free countries.

Propaganda outbursts may be expected at every stage of the present controversy. The North Vietnamese government and its communist allies have been encouraged by the dissension within the United States to believe that the American people will consent to anything just to find an excuse to withdraw their troops.

"Peace talks," therefore, can be part of a propaganda war by the enemy. One thing is clear — the North Vietnamese are in no hurry and need time to reorganize and recuperate as they have been dealt some heavy blows in the war. But once the American presidential elections are over, the communists will probably be surprised to discover that American policy insofar as Southeast Asia is concerned will not have undergone any significant change.

Meanwhile, the morale of the South Vietnamese Republic is causing worry. The United States has heretofore repeatedly manifested an unswerving determination to protect all Southeast Asian countries against aggression by the communists. So any weakness emerging now could result in confusion within South Vietnam at the very time when an enlarged army is being mobilized to reduce the burden carried mainly by the American troops.

Sooner or later an international force will have to be established by the United Nations to keep peace in Asia or a collective arrangement will have to be set up with Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, South Korea and India contributing manpower for such a permanent force. Once an armistice in Vietnam is declared, the U. N. could take over the responsibility for supervision of the agreement which presumably will spell out the future obligations of North and South Vietnam.

McCarthy Wastes No Love On Kennedy or Humphrey

By PETER LISAGOR

WASHINGTON—Should Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy have to decide where to throw his support for the Democratic Presidential nomination, the choice is likely to be made with a painful reluctance.

McCarthy and his associates, increasingly smitten with the Presidential bug, scoff at the notion that he will eventually yield to the superior forces of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The Minnesota Democrat's showing in New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries, plus manifest strength in non-primary tests in Minnesota and Connecticut, has nurtured the belief in McCarthy's camp that he could wind up at the Chicago convention as the beneficiary, instead of the victim, of a brokered ticket.

Most professional politicians, however, believe that McCarthy will be compelled to make his peace with either Humphrey or Kennedy, even though the Minnesotan has said he would release his delegates, if he falters, to go where they might choose.

Though both are Minnesotans, McCarthy owes nothing to Humphrey. He has been his own man in Minnesota politics. When McCarthy first ran for the Senate in 1958, it was widely suspected that the nominally neutral Humphrey privately favored Mrs. Eugenie Anderson for the post.

In recent years, the relations between the two men have been correct, to use a diplomatic term connoting anything but a bosom companionship. McCarthy has felt that Humphrey parroted President Johnson on Vietnam and other issues with a slavish devotion beyond the call of duty, and has been heard to speak disdainfully of the Vice President.

McCarthy was said to have borne a deep resentment toward Humphrey because LBJ had passed him over to choose HHH as his Vice Presidential candidate. "Behind McCarthy's amiable face is a man who hates hard," a Humphrey man once said of McCarthy.

But in a crunch, would he throw his support to Kennedy, for whom he has developed an outspoken distaste?

The Kennedys have long memories, and for his part, Bobby remembered that McCarthy supported Lyndon Johnson over his brother in 1960. Also, in the Kennedy book, McCarthy's masterful nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson at the 1960 convention was construed as a stop-Kennedy act.

Masaryk Murdered: Terror Survivors

By HANS BENEDICT

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Survivors of a wave of Communist terror trials 20 years ago say Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk was murdered in 1948 by Stalin's secret police.

They said the Soviet dictator ordered Masaryk killed because he resisted pressure to surrender his post. He was one of the non-Communist members of the Klement Gottwald government which seized power a month before.

Guided by Collaborator

A squad of NKVD agents led by Maj. Franz Schramm was guided to Masaryk's second-floor bedroom on March 10, 1948, by a collaborator in the palace guard at the Czernin Palace, the informants said. Masaryk was dragged out of bed and, after a violent struggle, pushed out of a window, they said.

The Communist government said he committed suicide.

The informants said the anti-Communist underground plotted to kidnap Schramm and take him, along with documentary evidence, to the West to prove the assassination. Instead, they said, the underground ended up killing Schramm, leading to the terror trials of suspected underground members.

The new reformist Communist government in Czechoslovakia has opened a new investigation of Masaryk's death but has reported that so far nothing has been discovered to refute the ruling of suicide. Authorities have appealed to potential witnesses to volunteer information, but many seem reluctant to do so for fear of reprisals.

Dr. Zdenek Borkovec, the chief criminal investigator in Prague in 1948, says the Masaryk case was immediately taken out of his hands by the political security department. Borkovec has offered to assist in the new investigation, presumably by supplying information he collected privately together with his brother, Frantisek, a non-Communist security officer executed in 1949 for participating in a revolt of political prisoners at the Litomerice Prison.

Sources who asked not to be identified gave this version of the attempt to kidnap Schramm:

'Bloody Amateurs'

A team of young anti-Communists which had fled to West Germany was put through a hurried three-week training at Regensburg and sent back to Prague to kidnap Schramm. One source described them as "bloody amateurs, full of enthusiasm," who were led by Miloslav Choc, 23, a student of political science.

Lack of secrecy and a traitor in the group soon put police on the team's trail, but no arrests were made immediately.

On May 27, 1948, Schramm answered his doorbell and a man wearing a light raincoat killed him with two pistol shots and fled. Witnesses identified the killer as Choc. He was arrested June 7 at Olomouc and later put on trial with 129 other persons arrested in a massive crackdown on the underground.

After lengthy questioning, Choc said the gunman was a J. Bauer, who together with another unknown man entered Schramm's house while Coc and Slavoj Sadek remained outside as lookouts.

Neither Two Ever Found

Choc said Bauer carried a bottle of ether to silence Schramm for the kidnaping. But police said the underground agents had failed in efforts to obtain a getaway car and from this the court concluded that the agents intended to kill Schramm. Neither Bauer nor the other man ever were found.

Choc and Sadek were executed Feb. 19, 1949, on charges of murder and attempting to overthrow the regime. The other 128 defendants received prison terms ranging from 15 years to life.

The underground, directed by Czechoslavak emigre organizations in West Germany with backing from Western intelligence services, was said to have been active as late as 1954. At least 60,000 former resistance members are known to have been sentenced to hard labor in the Jachimov uranium mines.

Coney Rioting Blamed on T-A

NEW YORK (AP) — In the aftermath of 11 Negro youths being charged with rioting, Mayor John V. Lindsay has said that faulty planning by the Transit Authority contributed to the trouble that occurred as hordes jamed the subways leaving Coney Island on Easter Sunday night.

Lindsay made public Monday night a letter he had sent to William J. Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which has supervision over the city Transit Authority.

Urged Action

The letter urged immediate action to prevent a recurrence of the disorders.

Lindsay told Ronan that those who attended a meeting of the Urban Action Task Force on Monday agreed that "the situation could have been avoided, at least in part, if additional Transit Authority buses, trains and personnel had been assigned.'

The letter said Lindsay and Barry Gottehrer, chairman of the task force, "were deeply disturbed to learn . . . about the backup of trains and the apparent lack of sufficient buses and trains for the large number of people from Coney Island at the end of the day."

"We were both equally concerned about the apparent lack of Transit Authority police assigned to these trains and the area," the hand-delivered letter continued.

"We cannot afford for this to happen again, either in transporting police from the Coney Island or other heavily utilized resort areas, such as the Rockaways and Orchard Beach.

"I do not think we can afford to delay another moment in the reassignment of Transit Authority equipment and personnel to prevent a recurrence of the situation."

Ready Reply

A Transit Authority spokesman said a reply was being drafted. "It is a serious situation, and we are taking it seriously," the spokesman said.

The TA had said earlier that enough trains were available to handle the Coney Island crowd Sunday night. It said the disorders might have been avoided if city police had not herded unruly crowds into the Stillwell Avenue terminal at the Brooklyn resort.

A city police spokesman agreed with the assessment by the Urban Action Task Force that the TA did not have enough trains or transit police to handle the situation.

Trains Jammed

The trouble started in the Coney Island amusement area, spread into the Stillwell Avenue subway terminal and then into trains which were jammed with many of the estimated 600,000 persons who formed a record Eastern crowd at Coney Island.

The 11 Negroes charged Monday with riots in the first degree and unlawful assembly were accused of terrorizing passengers on one of the trains. They were among 30 Negro youths removed by police from a train at the Whitehall Street station in lower Manhattan.

Police were told that seven passengers were assaulted and robbed during the ride from Coney Island, that a wig was seized from a woman and that windows were smashed in three cars of the 10-car train.

Police said passengers also were terrorized on several other trains.

Nineteen of the 30 youths seized at Whitehall Street are juveniles and were turned over to Family Court.

In Night Court, Criminal Court Judge Milton Shalleck held the 11 accused rioters in $5 bail each. Hearings were set for later.

Saugerties CC To Hear Data On Town Funds

The controversy of investing town funds will be one of the prime topics at tonight's Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce meeting at 8 p.m. in Saugerties Savings Bank building.

Chamber President Albert V. Conte has sent letters of invitation to Town Supervisor A. Michael Schowd and John F. Carrington of Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company to attend the session.

Both were asked to bring their financial advisers in order that the matter may be reviewed. At last month's meeting of the Chamber the practice of investing town funds outside the community was criticized.

The Chamber members in attendance order that the matter should be reviewed and explained before the organization takes an official stand on the controversy.

A second reading is scheduled on a by-law change which would permit acceptance of associate members at $5 per year dues.

Washington Aux. 25th Anniversary On April 20

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company took place recently with President Helen Hornbeck presiding. A welcome was extended to new member Emily VanVoorhis and a prize was won by Clara Dawson.

Named to the refreshment committee for May were Margaret Wade, Barbara Darger, and Myrtle Whitaker.

A letter from the Village Clerk was read expressing appreciation to the auxiliary for their service to the firemen during the recent fire at the Russell Block.

The 25th anniversary of the organization will be observed with a party April 20 at 8 p.m. in the company rooms in the municipal building. All members are invited.

The first meeting of the Auxiliary was held June 8, 1942, with the assistance of Philip Breithaupt Sr. Charter members are: Marion Ehrler, Sarah Overbaugh, Myrtle Overbaugh, Helen Underhill, Lois Maines, Ethel Leppo, Sarah Underhill, Violet Underhill, Elsie Stoke, Alvaretta Whitaker, Camille Mills, Mary Breithaupt, and the late Eva VanWart. The original slate of officers were: president, Sarah Underhill, vice president, Eva VanWart; secretary, Camille Mills; treasurer, Myrtle Overbaugh.

Since that time the auxiliary has assisted firemen in raising funds, served coffee at major fires, and have remembered in many ways members of the Saugerties Fire Department at the Firemen's Home at Hudson.

The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held Thursday evening, May 2, in the muncipal building.

Public Referendum On Fire Truck in May

Malden-West Camp Fire District in the Town of Saugerties is anticipating the purchase of a new 750 gallon-per-minute pumper truck truck expected to cost about $28,000.

Arrangements for the proposed purchase was announced by Franklin P. Clum Sr., president of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and chairman of the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Clum said specifications for bids have gone out to dealers who will have a month to comply and it is expected that a public referendum on the proposal will be held about May 15. This would bring about delivery of the new equipment in the fall, if approved by the taxpayers.

Chairman Clum said the district will have $18,000 at the time of delivery to pay most of the cost and the remainder would be paid with bonds to be paid off from current income and without an increase in the fire tax rate.

The new pumper according to the specifications would carry a 1,500 gallon storage tank and be a cab over type so that from five to six firemen can ride in the cab enclosure.

The new fire truck would replace the tank truck, a 1957 Reo stationed at West Camp fire station.

Clum said the new equipment will provide better and more efficient fire protection. This is the first new pumper truck purchased by the fire district since it was formed in 1954.

When the fire district was first formed the assessed valuation of the district was $643,150 with a tax rate of $8.16 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Today the assessed valuation of the district property is $769,774, an increase of $126,624, and the fire tax rate is lower by more than $2 per $1,000. The current tax rate is $6.02.

In addition to Clum, the other fire commissioners are Vamoe F. Carpenter, Harry L. Moose, Harold W. Bennett, Fred Pesco, and Clarence E. Gardiner is district treasurer.

List Lutheran Church Events

The Lutheran Church Women of Atonement will meet Thursday, Apr. 18 at the church, Mrs. Harry Olson will conduct the meeting. The topic will be a Bible study by Richard Reinhart. Devotions will be conducted by Miss Naomi Nickaus of High Woods.

Refreshments will be provided by Mrs. Louis Vogel, Mrs. Henrietta Rourke and Mrs. Richard Gundersen of Main Street.

Members are asked to bring items for Wassaic Home for Retarded. Plans will be made for the Mothers-Daughter Dinner to be held May 16 at 6 p.m. at Elmyer's in Ruby.

The special congregational meeting authorized to consider the need and feasibility of constructing a parish house, has been postponed to June 16 at 8 p.m. in conjunction with a congregational supper. The delay is due to the desire of the committee, chaired by Ferrell McElrath of Halcyon Park, to conduct a study of the size and composition of the members, its growth potential and the problems that any new building should be planned to meet, plus the financial potential of the congregation to carry the program.

The pastor and members of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, will attend the service of installation of the Rev. Steven Middernacht as pastor of Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock, Sunday, Apr. 21 at 4 p.m. Clergy of area Lutheran churches will be in attendance and participate in the procession.

Pastor and members of the church council will attend a spring assembly of the Hudson District, Sunday, April 28, at 3 p.m. at St. Peter's, Portervis.

Blood Fat Disorders, Heart Trouble Studied

ALBANY, April 10 — The prevalence of various blood fat disorders and their possible relationship to heart and circulatory disease will be investigated by Albany Medical College researchers with the aid of a $5,890 grant from the National Dairy Council.

Receipt of the grant was announced by Dr. Harold C. Wiggers, executive vice-president and Dean of the Medical College. The research will be performed by Dr. David F. Brown, Associate Professor of Medicine, and Dr. Joseph T. Doyle, Professor of Medicine.

Dr. Brown and Dr. Doyle indicate that most research on dietary factors in coronary heart disease has relied almost exclusively on measurement of blood cholesterol levels and has overlooked the fact that high cholesterol levels are commonly associated with elevated levels of other fats, particularly triglyceride. Both cholesterol and triglyceride are transported in the blood stream in combination with blood proteins, and these combinations are known as lipoproteins.

The two scientists believe that the best approach to the problem is not to measure cholesterol and triglyceride separately, but instead, to measure these various fat protein combinations (lipoproteins) in which the fats are transported in the blood stream. Very little information is available on the prevalence of these various lipoprotein abnormalities in the general population.

H. Clark Bell GOP Speaker

The Town of Saugerties Republican Club, Inc. will hold its regular meeting on April 18 at Jim's Restaurant, 9W, West Camp at 8 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Attorney H. Clark Bell of Woodstock.

All members and enrolled Republicans are invited to attend.

Holstein Sale, Show in Cortland

Breeders of Registered Holstein cattle are holding a Statewide Cattle Show and Sale in Cortland, Friday evening and Saturday, April 19 and 20, 1968. Over 350 Black and White "bluebloods" are entered in the show and 55 are catalogued in the sale. Competition for trophies, ribbons and attending Championship honors will be keen in this annual classic event.

Friday evening, April 19, under the harmony of Backus Brothers Sale Managers, 55 head of the very finest New York Registered Holsteins will go to the highest bidder. Selections were made by Orison Cook, Pine Plains, a highly respected breeder, association director and competent Judge of all breeds of dairy cattle.

The consignments to the sale are attracting nation-wide attention because of their quality, pedigree, productive ability and excellent dairy conformation. Several cows listed are producing 100 pounds of milk or more daily, many are classified "excellent" and all are a combination of type and breeding which qualifies them as foundation animals. There are no bulls in the sale.

Show Day is Saturday, April 20. Starting at 9 a.m., all 350 head will be paraded before Richard E. Keene, Gilbertsville, the judge who last year officiated at one of the three National Holstein Shows. Keene is a breeder, a former classifier and fieldman, and a nationally recognized judge. He will also be judging at the State Fair later this year.

Friday evening following the sale all guests, visitors and breeders are invited to a reception sponsored by the Marine Midland Bank of Cortland.

Saugerties CC To Hear Data On Town Funds

The controversy of investing town funds will be one of the prime topics at tonight's Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce meeting at 8 p. m. in Saugerties Savings Bank building.

Chamber President Albert V. Conte has sent letters of invitation to Town Supervisor A. Michael Solowid and John P. Cannright of Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company to attend the session.

Both were asked to bring their financial advisers in order that the matter may be reviewed. At last month's meeting of the Chamber the practice of investing town funds outside the community was criticized.

The Chamber members in attendance do not feel that the matter should be reviewed and explained before the organization takes an official stand on the controversy.

A second reading is scheduled on a by-law change which would permit acceptance of associate members at $5 per year dues.

a pile of good reasons for CAREFUL DRIVING especially on weekends, vacations!

Still more tragic, the part that can't be shown! Bad enough, to see your accident-smashed car wind up on a junk heap. But the grimmest part of the picture doesn't show here. Behind these wrecks lies a tragic toll in precious lives lost, years of suffering and handicap to be endured. This, indeed, is your BEST reason to drive carefully.

With heavy weekend and vacation traffic jamming the highways, this is the time to drive with EXTRA care, to keep your eyes on the road, your hands on the wheel, your car off the junk heap, your name off the casualty list. Slow down. Precious lives (including yours) are in your hands!

Washington Aux. 25th Anniversary On April 20

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company took place recently with President Helen Hornbeck presiding. A welcome was extended to new member Emily VanVoorhis and a prize was won by Clara Dawson.

Named to the refreshment committee for May were Margaret Wade, Barbara Dargen and Myrtle Whitaker.

A letter from the Village Clerk was read expressing appreciation to the auxiliary for their service to the firemen during the recent fire at the Russell Block.

Public Referendum On Fire Truck in May

Malden-West Camp Fire District in the Town of Saugerties is anticipating the purchase of a new 750 gallon-per-minute pumper truck estimated to cost about $28,000.

Arrangements for the proposed purchase was announced by Franklin P. Clum Sr., president of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and chairman of the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Clum said specifications for bids have gone out to dealers who will have a month to comply and it is expected that a public referendum on the proposal will be held about May 15. This should bring about delivery of the new equipment in the fall, if approved by the taxpayers.

Chairman Clum said the district will have $18,000 at the time of delivery to pay most of the cost and the remainder would be paid with a bank loan to be paid off from current income and without an increase in the fire tax rate.

The new pumper according to the specifications would carry a 1,500 gallon storage tank and be a cab over type so that from five to six firemen can ride in the cab enclosure.

The new fire truck would replace the tank truck, a 1937 Reo stationed at West Camp fire station.

Clum said the new equipment will provide better and more efficient fire protection. This is the first new pumper truck purchased by the fire district since it was formed in 1954.

When the fire district was first formed the assessed valuation of the district was $643,150 with a tax rate of $8.16 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Today the total assessed valuation of the district property is $769,774, an increase of $126,624, and the fire tax rate is lower by more than $2 per $1,000. The current tax rate is $6.02.

In addition to Clum, the other fire commissioners are Harold Schantz, Harry L. Moose, Harold W. Bennett, Fred Peseo, and Clarence E. Gardner is district treasurer.

Blood Fat Disorders, Heart Trouble Studied

ALBANY, April 10 — The prevalence of various blood fat disorders and their possible relationship to heart and circulatory disease will be investigated by Albany Medical College researchers with the aid of a $9,890 grant from the National Dairy Council.

Receipt of the grant was announced by Dr. Harold C. Wiggers, executive vice-president and Dean of the Medical College. The research will be performed by Dr. David F. Brown, Associate Professor of Medicine, and Dr. Joseph T. Doyle, Professor of Medicine.

Dr. Brown and Dr. Doyle indicate that most research on dietary factors in coronary heart disease has relied almost exclusively on measurement of blood cholesterol levels and has overlooked the fact that high cholesterol levels are commonly associated with elevated levels of other fats, particularly triglyceride. Both cholesterol and triglyceride are transported in the blood stream in combination with blood proteins, and these combinations are known as lipoproteins.

The two scientists believe that the best approach to the problem is not to measure cholesterol and triglyceride separately, but instead, to measure these various fat protein combinations (lipoproteins) in which the fats are transported in the blood stream. Very little information is available on the prevalence of these various lipoprotein abnormalities in the general population.

Holstein Sale, Show in Cortland

Breeders of Registered Holstein cattle are holding a Statewide Cattle Show and Sale in Cortland, Friday evening and Saturday, April 19 and 20, 1968. Over 350 Black and White "bluebloods" are entered in the show and 55 are catalogued in the competition for trophies, ribbons and attending Championship honors will be keen in this annual classic event.

Friday evening, April 19, under the hammer of Backus Brothers Sale Managers, 55 head of the very finest New York Registered Holsteins will go to the highest bidder. Selections were made by Orison Cook, Pine Plains, a highly respected breeder, association director and competent Judge of all breeds of dairy cattle.

The consignments to the sale are attracting nation-wide attention because of their quality, pedigree, productive ability and excellent dairy conformation. Several cows listed are producing 100 pounds of milk or more daily, many are classified "excellent" and all are a combination of type and breeding which qualifies them as foundation animals. There are no bulls in the sale.

Show Day is Saturday, April 20. Starting at 9 a.m., all 350 head will be paraded before Richard E. Keene, Gilbertsville, the judge who last year officiated at one of the three National Holstein Shows. Keene is a breeder, a former classifier and Holman, and a nationally recognized judge. He will also be judging at the State Fair later this year.

Friday evening following the sale all guests, visitors and breeders are invited to a reception sponsored by the Marine Midland Bank of Cortland.

Coffee House Talks Underway At City Hall

Three members of the proposed Kingston Coffee House steering committee were to meet with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan at city hall 11 a. m. today.

Fund-raising activities of the coffee house hit a snag yesterday when it was learned requirements for use of the municipal auditorium for a variety show Thursday night had not been met.

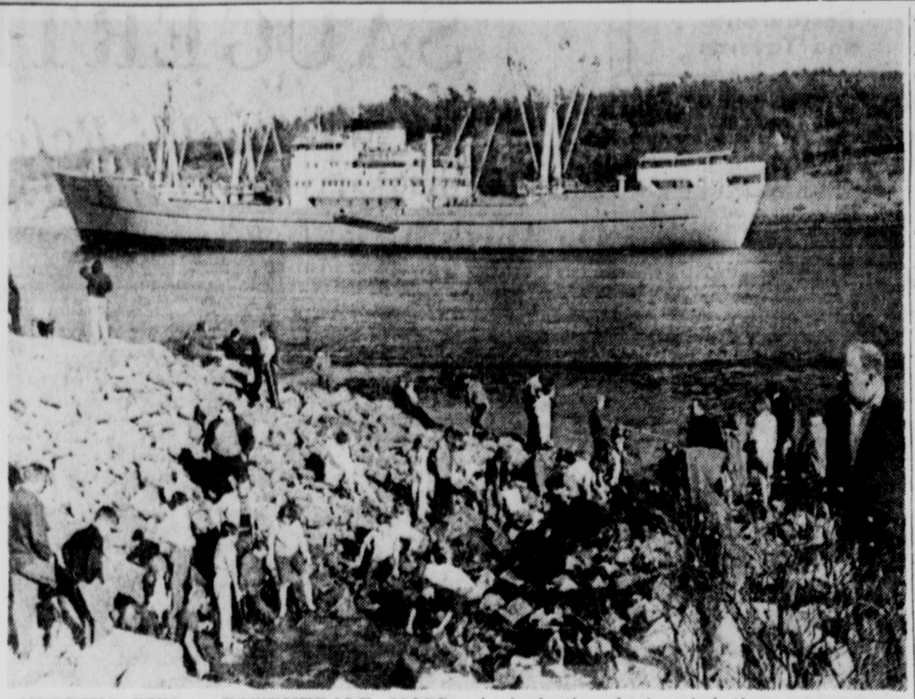

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, co-chairman of the steering committee said this morning that efforts to comply with the insurance requirements had been made and he anticipated all details would be worked out with the city clerk's office prior to the meeting with the mayor.

Attending the late morning session to tell the coffee house story to the city's chief executive were Rabbi Eichhorn, the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church and Miss Joan Freeman of the YWCA, members of the committee. Also on hand was Thomas Phillips, Bard College student who proposed the coffee house project to social, civic and church leaders earlier this year.

Nationwide Phone Strike Is Certain

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a miracle can avert a nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers next Thursday, says President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers.

After a seven-hour meeting with the union's executive board Monday, Beirne said:

"The board is in full agreement that the strike appears inevitable at this point and that our position must be to press hard and unceasingly for the substantial general (wage) increase that our members both need and deserve."

Some 8,000 members of another union, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are already on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and 14,000 members of Beirne's union are respecting the picket lines and refusing to work.

The New Jersey telephone company said supervisory personnel stayed on the job and there was no interruption of service to its 2.2 million customers when the strike began Monday.

Beirne conceded that a strike by his members would also have little immediate impact on most customers, except for long distance calls and other service requiring an operator, because of the highly automated nature of the nation's telephone system.

A 3 p.m. Thursday deadline for the strike would involve 23,000 telephone installers whom the union is using to try to set a new wage pattern. They are the highest paid, averaging $3.27 an hour compared with an average of $2.79 for all telephone workers.

A strike by the installers would halt work on putting in new telephone equipment around the nation. They are employes of the Western Electric Co., the manufacturing subsidiary of Bell.

Also involved would be Bell System workers in Ohio, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota Nebraska, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan, Idaho, Indiana, Northern California, Nevada, Washington State and Washington, D.C.

Other Bell System contracts around the nation expire later in April and May, and the strike eventually could embrace all states except Hawaii and Alaska. The executive board of the Communications Workers has already authorized approval of any later strike votes by Bell System units of the union.

Katsbaan Blaze Quelled; Brush Fires Diminish

Fire in rubbish at the rear of a private garage on property owned by the Dederick family at Katsbaan Corners Monday afternoon set fire to the exterior of the frame building and spread up one wall and ignited the roof.

Assistant Chief Thomas Brennan of the Centerville Fire Company said the fire was discovered by a neighbor at about 5:25 p. m. and she notified the owner of the building who turned in an alarm. Twenty-five volunteer firemen responded and quelled the flames. Damage was confined to a wall and a section of the roof. The garage is used by William Frame, fire officials reported.

Although the number of brush and grass fires in Ulster, Dutchess and other neighboring areas was less than in the last several days, Ulster County volunteer fire companies responded to five fires yesterday and Mutual Aid Headquarters in Poughkeepsie logged a total of 13 calls for fires, some of which reportedly had been set by children playing with matches.

The public has been asked to take every possible step to prevent fires during the existing emergency which has resulted in the cancellation of burning permits by the State Conservation Department and the placing of a ban on all open burning in several mid-Hudson Valley counties including Ulster, Dutchess and Greene.

Paltz School Tax Increase Anicipated

The school tax rate for New Paltz is expected to rise "considerably" next year due to the cost of operating the new high school building and the addition of more than 20 new positions to the staff.

The board of education in defending the need for more tax revenue has made the following statement.

"In the past four years, while the tax rates in the surrounding districts have been rising sharply, New Paltz has been able to lower its tax from $128.81 per $1,000 of assessed value in 1964-65 to $127.61 this year. A recent study of the school tax rates in 45 schools in the Mid-Hudson valley indicates that New Paltz ranks 31st from the top and well under the average. A fair comparison of tax rates can only be made on the basis of tax per $1,000 of true value. The current rate for New Paltz is $16.58. The lowest tax of all 45 districts is $11.50 while the highest is $29.53.

"Although it is not anticipated that New Paltz will enjoy as favorable a position next year it should be pointed out that costs are rising in other school districts as well and most of the other schools will experience a tax rise similar to New Paltz."

Set Fire Meeting

Kingston firemen and fire commissioners will meet with members of the Common Council in the city clerk's office tomorrow night at 8:30 to discuss wage differences between the firemen and the city.

Son of CORE Director Dies From Gunshot

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Innis Jr., 13, son of the associate national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, was shot and killed Monday night while playing outside a Bronx apartment house near his home.

Police arrested David Newborn, 49, a postal clerk who lives in the apartment house, and booked him on a charge of homicide. Newborn, like Innis, is a Negro.

Police said young Innis, his brother, Alexander, 1, and two other boys were running in and out of the building playing when a man leaned out of a second floor window and shouted: "Stop the noise."

After the youths failed to heed his warning, the man came downstairs and suddenly appeared on the stoop holding a pistol. As the youngsters started to run he fired one shot.

Young Innis was struck in the back and fell face down in the street, fatally wounded. Two patrolmen on duty nearby seized Newborn.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved generally higher early Tuesday despite softness in the Big Three stocks. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by more than 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, and the exchange's index showed a small plus.

Gains of about a point were made by U.S. Gypsum, Penn Central, Xerox, Boeing and Caterpillar.

Fractional losses were taken by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. American Motors was steady.

Steels edged higher on balance as records continued being set in weekly steel production.

Du Pont lost nearly a point of the 7-point leap it had made Monday on news of climbing profits in the first quarter.

The motor stocks seemed aversely affected by a report that sales of new cars fell 6.8 per cent from the daily sales rate a year earlier. A factor in the decline of car sales was the civil disorders after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Medusa Portland Cement was given a big lead on volume over the rest of the list as it opened on 43,200 shares, off ⅛ at 34½. Imperial Corp. eased ⅛ to 10½ on an opener of 11,000 shares while U.S. Steel gained ¼ at 39⅞ on 5,000 shares and International Paper rose ¼ to 30¼ on 5,200

PROTEST TAX FOR WAR — Demonstrators, protesting that their tax dollars are feeding the U. Speculation in silver continues unabated. And it will become intensified. America's adverse balance of payments carries international significance. When millions of people lose faith in paper money, they look for other values to buy.

A year ago silver was $1.293 an ounce. It is now $2.25 an ounce—nearly double its price in 1967. And silver futures (contracts can be filled in six months and a year) are selling for $2.39 and $2.50.

A gold and silver bullion expert in New York City believes that gold and silver are both headed considerably higher. He bases his opinions on two primary forces: the failure of the U.S. government to put its financial house in order and the European distrust of the dollar.

July 1 is just around the corner. At that time, the facts about the U.S. government's deficits for the fiscal years 1968 and 1969 will be better known. For the year from July 1, 1967, to 1968, the red figures will be several billions.

And unless federal spending is greatly reduced and higher individual and corporation taxes exacted, the deficit in Washington from July 1, 1968, to July 1, 1969, will be enormous.

It is a very serious situation when silver can go from $1.29 to $2.50 an ounce.

As I have stated in this column repeatedly, there are hundreds of millions of dollars in America owned by individuals who are greatly disturbed by the deterioration of the buying power of the dollar.

Inflation has become a way of life. Right now, measues should be passed by the Congress and action followed by the Administration to cut non-essential domestic expenses and to increase taxes so that our government will take in enough to pay its expenses without large, future borrowing.

On Feb. 28, 1968, the federal debt was $355.261 billion! The ceiling on the debt is $358 billion. Stern measures should be introduced in the fiscal affair of Uncle Sam's budget to prevent further borrowing.

Speculation is rife in America because of the inflationary bases under the dollar. It is ironic that in Washington, where the foundations of inflation have been built and are operating, plans are being introduced to limit individual and corporate spending.

Readers of this article, who are wondering what to do with idle dollars and who are deeply involved in the growing inflation, should not speculate in gold and silver and in the stock market unless they understand the dangers of risk-taking today.

Adopt sound investment policies. With short-term money, buy good bonds that mature soon, and with long-term money, purchase stocks that are sure to grow in America's expanding economy.

This rule can't be expressed too often: the best hedge against inflation is a common stock of a leading corporation that sells goods and services to our growing population.

IRS Relies on Tipsters To Catch Tax Cheaters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its complex tax computers, the Internal Revenue Service still relies on tipsters to catch some of America's tax cheats.

But the number of rewards for supplying usable information is on the wane.

Now that Monday's income tax deadline is past, IRS can expect a flood of mail claiming that one person or another cheated on his tax return.

Officials said they receive about 100,000 tips each year from persons looking for rewards, seeking vengence, disgruntled with their employer—or simply patriotic.

The number who actually collect a reward is relatively small—624 for the last complete fiscal year—and is expected to get smaller. Two years before, 79 persons got rewards.

Officials said the computer system now in complete operation can uncover errors and ommissions on tax returns before the informer can act.

IRS doesn't broadcast the fact it sometimes uses information supplied by tipsters to catch tax cheats but officials said it's a small part of the law enforcement program.

Total tax collections last year came to $148 billion, one source said, and only $11 million stemmed from information supplied by informants.

During the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the service received 4,019 claims for rewards from tipsters, rejected 3,395 of them and allowed the 624.

The reward can go as high as 10 per cent of the amount collected by IRS but it usually averages between 4 and 6 per cent. And rewards are passed out only after IRS determines the information helped materially to recover additional taxes.

Halley's Comet made its last appearance on May 18, 1910, and is due to reappear in 1986.

Salt Water Conversion A New Growth Area

Q—I hear talk about desalination as a coming growth industry. If you are of the same opinion, what stock should I buy to benefit therefrom?—D. S.

A—I do agree. This is another aspect of oceanography moving toward profitable commercial operations that will benefit large-scale food processors and provide ample supplies of fresh drinking water for human beings and livestock.

By 1972 the world's largest desalination plant is scheduled to go into production near Los Angeles, capable of producing 15 million gallons a day at a cost of 20 cents per 1,000 gallons. This undertaking is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, the Los Angeles Metropolitan Water District and several utility companies.

It is estimated that desalination plant construction in the Free World during the next 10 years may run to $700 million plus another $500 million for required power plants.

Aqua-Chem is one of the leading factors in this new industry with favorable prospects for long-term growth. Earnings have about trebled over the past 5 years. Latest reports state that the company now enjoys almost a 50% share of the world market for desalting plants of 25,000 gallons daily and up.

Q—Last year when General Instrument was trading around 80 I acquired my present holdings as an exchange for shares of Universal Controls. Now General Instrument trades in the 50s. Should I sell while I can get out even, or hold for recovery?—W. T.

A—I advise you to hold for recovery since long-range prospects are encouraging. The product line has been broadened through the acquisition of Universal Controls and Jerrold Corp. The latter is a leading supplier of CATV equipment—cable TV—and a builder of complete CATV systems. This affiliation opens up a new and potentially profitable area in home improvement. Subscribers to CATV, who pay a reasonable monthly fee for greatly improved TV reception, have now passed the 2 million mark, up from 650,000 in 1960 when this service was introduced.

CANADIAN WHISKY — A BLEND · 80 PROOF · IMPORTED BY NATIONAL DISTILLERS PRODUCTS CO., NEW YORK

Elegant tradition:
The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

Tonight serve Windsor Canadian: the remarkable, sippin'-smooth Canadian that's already changing thousands of Americans' ideas on the whisky to serve.

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks—highballs or over ice—one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.

2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

Nationwide Phone Strike Is Certain

AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a miracle can avert a nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers next Thursday, says President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers.

After a seven-hour meeting with the union's executive board Monday, Beirne said:

"The board is in full agreement that the strike appears inevitable at this point and that our position must be to press hard and unceasingly for the substantial general (wage) increase that our members both need and deserve."

Some 8,000 members of another union, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are already on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and 14,000 members of Beirne's union are respecting the picket lines and refusing to work.

The New Jersey telephone company said supervisory personnel stayed on the job and there was no interruption of service to its 2.2 million customers when the strike began Monday.

Beirne conceded that a strike by his members would also have little immediate impact on most customers, except for long distance calls and other service requiring an operator, because of the highly automated nature of the nation's telephone system.

A 3 p.m. Thursday deadline for the strike would involve 23,000 telephone installers whom the union is using to try to set a new wage pattern. They are the highest paid, averaging $3.27 an hour compared with an average of $2.79 for all telephone workers.

A strike by the installers would halt work on putting in new telephone equipment around the nation. They are employes of the Western Electric Co., the manufacturing subsidiary of Bell.

Also involved would be Bell System workers in Ohio, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota Nebraska, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan, Idaho, Indiana, Northern California, Nevada, Washington State and Washington, D.C.

Other Bell System contracts around the nation expire later in April and May, and the strike eventually could embrace all states except Hawaii and Alaska. The executive board of the Communications Workers has already authorized approval of any later strike votes by Bell System units of the union.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved generally higher early Tuesday despite softness in the Big Three stocks. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by more than 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange, and the exchange's index showed a small plus.

Gains of about a point were made by U.S. Gypsum, Penn Central, Xerox, Boeing and Caterpillar.

Fractional losses were taken by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. American Motors was steady.

Steels edged higher on balance as records continued being set in weekly steel production.

Du Pont lost nearly a point of the 7-point leap it had made Monday on news of climbing profits in the first quarter.

The motor stocks seemed aversely affected by a report that sales of new cars fell 6.8 per cent from the daily sales rate a year earlier. A factor in the decline of car sales was the civil disorders after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Medusa Portland Cement was given a big lead on volume over the rest of the list as it opened on 43,200 shares, off ⅛ at 34½. Imperial Corp. eased ⅛ to 10½ on an opener of 11,000 shares while U.S. Steel gained ¼ at 39⅜ on 5,000 shares and International Paper rose ¼ to 30¼ on 5,200

Opening blocks included:

Son of CORE Director Dies From Gunshot

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Innis Jr., 13, son of the associate national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, was shot and killed Monday night while playing outside a Bronx apartment house near his home.

Police arrested David Newborn, 49, a postal clerk who lives in the apartment house, and booked him on a charge of homicide. Newborn, like Innis, is a Negro.

Police said young Innis, his brother, Alexander, 1, and two other boys were running in and out of the building playing when a man leaned out of a second floor window and shouted: "Stop the noise."

After the youths failed to heed his warning, the man came downstairs and suddenly appeared on the stoop holding a pistol. As the youngsters started to run he fired one shot.

Young Innis was struck in the back and fell face down in the street, fatally wounded. Two patrolmen on duty nearby seized Newborn.

Four Upstaters In Viet Total

Four Western New York servicemen have been killed in Vietnam including Army Pfc. Willy Robert Michalik, 20, a native of Germany, who had been in the war-torn country less than one month.

Pfc. Michalik, whose wife, Oma Haddoc Michalik, is living at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., came to the U.S. 10 years ago with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Michalik, of Canandaigua, said he was graduated from Canandaigua High School and entered service about two years ago. They learned of his death Monday.

Pfc. Michalik is survived by an infant son, a brother and two sisters in addition to his parents and his wife.

The parents of Army S. Sgt. Ernest E. Lesure Jr., 21, of Rochester said their son was killed while he was on patrol Saturday.

They said Sgt. Lesure was married a few weeks before he left for Vietnam in July 1967. His wife, Rosetta Lesure, lives in Petersburg, Va.

He attended Benjamin Franklin High School in Rochester and joined the Army in 1964.

Marine Sgt. Louis M. Lane, 22, was killed April 9 when struck by rocket fragments in combat in Quang Tri Province, his parents said.

Mr. Louis J. Lane, a resident of Fillmore, said his son joined the Marine Corps in 1964 after graduation from high school in Rochester, where the family formerly lived.

Sgt. Lane was married a week to the former Patricia Keeney of Bath before he went overseas last December.

Marine Pfc. Timothy J. Nightengale, 18, was killed April 6, after being in Vietnam since February, his parents said.

They said Pfc. Nightengale of Buffalo entered the corps after graduation last June from South Park High School.

He is survived by four sisters and two brothers in addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Nightengale.

The Michalik family lives at 97 South Pearl St.

The Lesure's address is 112 Rauber St.

The Lanes live at 17 Minard St.

The Nightengale family lives at 51 Altruria St.

Katsbaan Blaze Quelled; Brush Fires Diminish

Fire in rubbish at the rear of a private garage on property owned by the Dederick family at Katsbaan Corners Monday afternoon set fire to the exterior of the frame building and spread up one wall and ignited the roof.

Assistant Chief Thomas Brennan of the Centerville Fire Company said the fire was discovered by a neighbor at about 5:25 p. m. and she notified the owner of the building who turned in an alarm. Twenty-five volunteer firemen responded and quelled the flames. Damage was confined to a wall and a section of the roof. The garage is used by William Frame, fire officials reported.

Although the number of brush and grass fires in Ulster, Dutchess and other neighboring areas was less than in the last several days, Ulster County volunteer fire companies responded to five fires yesterday and Mutual Aid Headquarters in Poughkeepsie logged a total of 13 calls for fires, some of which reportedly had been set by children playing with matches.

The public has been asked to take every possible step to prevent fires during the existing emergency which has resulted in the cancellation of burning permits by the State Conservation Department and the placing of a ban on all open burning in several mid-Hudson Valley counties including Ulster, Dutchess and Greene.

Paltz School Tax Increase Anicipated

The school tax rate for New Paltz is expected to rise "considerably" next year due to the cost of operating the new high school building and the addition of more than 20 new positions to the staff.

The board of education in defending the need for more tax revenue has made the following statement.

"In the past four years, while the tax rates in the surrounding districts have been rising sharply, New Paltz has been able to lower its tax from $128.81 per $1,000 of assessed value in 1964-65 to $127.61 this year. A recent study of the school tax rates in 45 schools in the Mid-Hudson valley indicates that New Paltz ranks 31st from the top and well under the average. A fair comparison of tax rates can only be made on the basis of tax per $1,000 of true value. The current rate for New Paltz is $16.58. The lowest tax of all 45 districts is $11.50 while the highest is $29.53.

"Although it is not anticipated that New Paltz will enjoy as favorable a position next year it should be pointed out that costs are rising in other school districts as well and most of the other schools will experience a tax rise similar to New Paltz."

CANADIAN WHISKY — A BLEND · 80 PROOF · IMPORTED BY NATIONAL DISTILLERS PRODUCTS CO., NEW YORK

Tonight serve Windsor Canadian: the remarkable, sippin'-smooth Canadian that's already changing thousands of Americans' ideas on the whisky to serve.

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks —highballs or over ice—one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.

2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

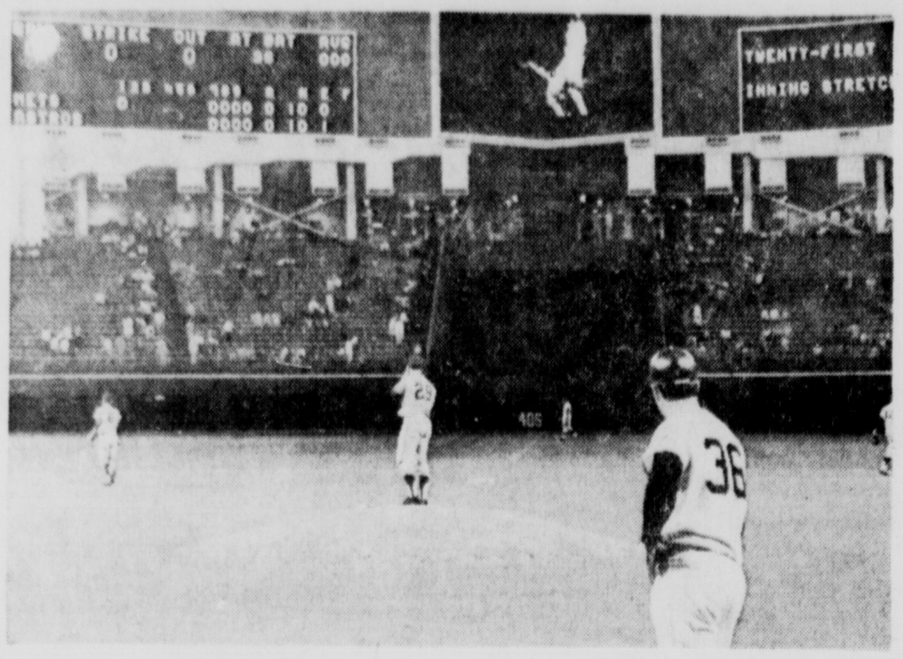

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

The Longest Night Game Ever

Houston Gave Hofheinz His Wish in 24th Inning

THE THIRD STRETCH — Baseball fans are accustomed to getting a 7th inning stretch, but fans at the Astrodome in Houston last night got three including this one the 21st inning. The Astros and the Mets played 24 innings before the Astros won 1-0 on a Met error. About 1000 fans remained to the end. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rusty Staub said things started getting pretty funny around the 17th inning. Roy Hofheinz officially sanctioned the humor of the situation five innings later.

Two innings before the longest night game in major league history ended in the Astrodome Monday night with Houston a 1-0 victor over the New York Mets — who else? — the following legend appeared on Astros' owner Hofheinz' psychedelic scoreboard:

"The judge says he's ready to go to bed . . . let's score a run."

"After about the 17th inning, everything sort of got funny," said Staub, who batted nine times in the six-hour, six-minute contest. The game outlasted by two innings the longest night game played previously, a 6-5 American League victory for Washington over Chicago last year.

"That was a three-package-of-tobacco game, and I've just got one chew left," said catcher-coach Buddy Hancken of the Astros.

Ends With Error

The game mercifully came to an end in typical Metsian fashion, with an error letting in the run after eight pitchers had battled valiantly to preserve the scoreless deadlock.

In the only other National League games played, Los Angeles rallied heroically to beat Pittsburgh 3-2 and St. Louis topped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Washington buried California 7-0, Oakland beat New York 6-3 and Minnesota downed Baltimore 6-3.

Shortstop Al Weis let a grounder off the bat of Bob Aspromonte go through his legs and that sent in Norm Miller, who led off with a single and advanced on a balk by Les Rohr and an infield out.

"No, it didn't take a bad hop," said Weis afterwards. "I just blew it. It went right through my legs."

Seaver Hurls Well

Tom Seaver was the first of the Met hurlers, giving up just two hits in 10 innings and retiring 22 batters in a row after the third inning.

Don Wilson did almost as well in the first nine innings for Houston, but was long gone by the time Wade Blasingame, the fifth Houston pitcher, was officially declared the winner.

The Dodgers won in a finish that would have made a writer of juvenile sports fiction blush. Bob Beale was breezing along on a one-hitter into the ninth, but Jim Lefebvre's two-out, two-run homer beat him.

The first Los Angeles run of the inning, scoring on an infield out, was only the second scored in 44 innings this season. Until then, the Dodgers seemed likely to absorb their fourth shutout defeat in the five-game-old season.

Bill Singer, who gave up only six hits himself, and retired 19 batters in a row at one stretch, was the winner. Veale didn't allow a hit until the fifth when Rocky Colavito singled.

And in yet another last-inning finish, Johnny Edwards came up with a pinch single that drove in the winning run for the Cards. Pat Jarvis and Bog Gibson had duelled 1-1 into the seventh when Hank Aaron's homer gave Atlanta a one-run bulge.

But Roger Maris drove in two runs in the eighth for the Cards with a double and not till Dal Maxvill singled in the 10th and rode home on Edwards' single was the game decided.

Orange Tossers Hand UCCC 5-1 Defeat

A reshuffled Ulster County Community College baseball team allowed two runs in the first inning to Orange County Community College, and the Colts Ralph Hoover made that stand up as OCCC took UCCC, 5-1 yesterday afternoon in a Mid-Hudson Conference clash.

The game, halted by rain in the second inning, saw the revamped Senators succomb to the strong pitching of the Colts Hoover, and at the same time, force UCCC mentor, Al DiBernardo, to start a pitcher he was saving for Saturday.

DiBernardo had Charlie Moore penciled in to start against the Colts. Moore, an all-around athlete, played the outfield last weekend when John Schabot was injured, and yesterday, DiBernardo had to use him in the infield in place of second baseman, Frank Roselli, shelved with a back injury.

Instead of Moore, who will pitch Wednesday's game against Dutchess Community College, DiBernardo calls on Keith Mills, one of Saturday's hurlers.

Whiffs First

Mills whiffed the Colts first batter, Ron Gamma, but lost all control after that. He gave up a walk to Bill Dockstader, a single to Bob Onofry, and loaded the sacks with a walk to Larry Scheuermann (pronounced Sherman).

OCCC's bulky catcher, George DeTurris worked Mills for another walk, forcing in the first run.

DiBernardo in the meantime, began heating up Ken Hepner. Rain started to fall, but the game continued. Mills' first two serves to Rich McClernon were also balls and DiBernardo went to Heppner.

Heppner didn't have much luck with McClernon, allowing him to walk also, although it was charged to Mills. With both runs in via bases on balls, the Colts then had the game wrapped up—as it later turned out.

Score in Third

UCCC narrowed the margin by scoring in the third. Lou Perry walked, stole second and scored on Tom Tegeler's single.

An OCCC single in the fourth by Hoover set up two more Colt tallies. Mike Van Auker followed Hoover with another single, but outfielder Charlie Lay let the ball get through him. After retrieving the elusive horsehide, he fired home in an attempt to get Van Auker, but the throw was wild and both scored. The final run came on Bill Dockstader's solo homer in the sixth.

Hoover fanned seven and walked three. In Mills' short one-third inning stint, he fanned one and walked four. Heppner's mop-up was good for nine whiffs and three free walks to first.

The Senators are now 1-1 on the season and hold the same charting in the conference. They will be out to up that mark to 2-1 Wednesday at Dutchess.

If DiBernardo can field a full, healthy squad, he will be in fine shape. The juggling and revamping has taken its toll and cost the Senators a victory.

Torrid Twins Heading For Cool Minnesota

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spring has been a little late this year in Minnesota, but a heat wave is on the way.

Big Bob Allison and the torrid Twins are coming home.

While temperatures hovered around the freezing mark in Minneapolis-St. Paul Monday night, Allison continued his early-season hitting binge with two doubles and a triple at Baltimore as the unbeaten Twins whipped the Orioles 6-3 for their fifth straight road victory.

Allison led American League hitters with a .550 average and the Twins topped the AL standings as they headed back to Minnesota for Wednesday's home opener against Washington.

The Senators blanked California 7-0 behind Camilo Pascual's six-hit, nine-strikeout pitching and the Oakland A's downed the New York Yankees 6-3 in American League day games. Detroit and Boston were rained out and Cleveland and Chicago were not scheduled.

Eight Out of Nine

Allison doubled in the second inning, tripled in the fourth and doubled again in the sixth—giving him eight hits in nine at-bats—before going out in his last two trips to the plate. The former Kansas fullback, who drove in one run and scored two, has gone 11-for-20 over-all, with four doubles, one triple and one homer.

Right-hander Dave Boswell overcame a shaky start and held the Orioles to four hits. Tony Oliva's seventh inning single broke a 3-3 tie and Harmon Killebrew singled home two insurance runs in the ninth.

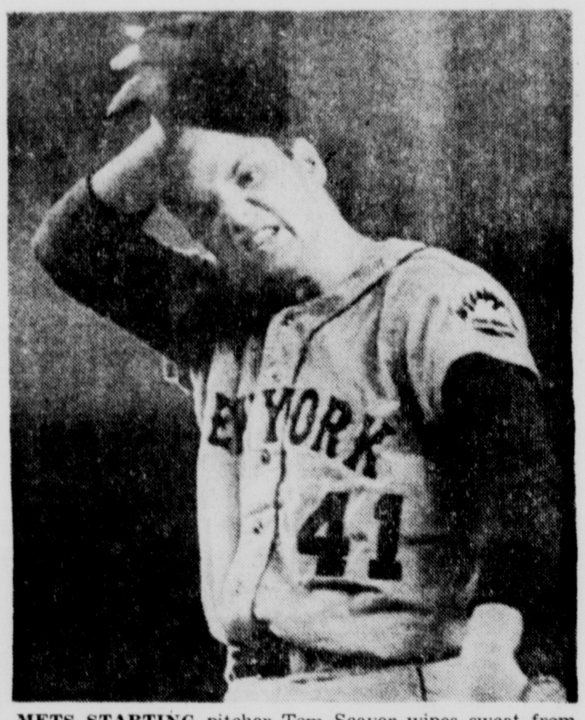

At Washington, Pascual became the only active American League pitcher to reach the 2,000 strikeout mark when he fanned the Angels' Chuck Hinton in the fourth inning.

The 34-year-old right-hander, who missed the last three weeks of the 1967 season after breaking his left ankle in a game to California, finished the day with a total of 2,007 strikeouts and the 33rd shutout of his career.

Ken McMullen and Sam Bowens homered for the Senators who wrapped up the victory with a five-run burst in the fifth.

Ramon Webster drilled a triple and homer, driving in three runs, and rookie Reggie Jackson delivered two more with a double and homer as the A's pounded Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre.

John "Blue Moon" Odom checked New York on five hits until the ninth, when Tom Tresh clipped him for a two-run homer.

Old Sam Rips 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sam Jones isn't ready for a rocking chair just yet.

The 34-year-old sharpshooting guard of the Boston Celtics may need a breather now and then, but he's as tough as ever in the clutch. If you don't believe it, ask the Philadelphia 76ers.

Philadelphia was all set Monday night to finish off the Celtics in their best of 7 game Eastern final in the National Basketball Association. The 76ers led 3-1 and were at home before a sellout crowd of 15,202. Everything pointed to a Boston fade out.

Something went wrong with the script. Boston won 122-104. Old and tired Sam Jones fired in 37 points.

"When you're down 3-1," said Old Sam after he finished shooting up the 76ers, "You just pull up your socks and get the job done."

Jones connected on 15 of 27 from the field and threw a natural at the foul line—7 for 11. He broke the back of the team he describes as the strongest physically he's ever seen.

So, the series headed back to Boston for the sixth game Wednesday night. A seventh, if necessary is slated for Philadelphia Friday night.

Jones didn't put down the defending champions all by himself. John Havlicek poured in 29 points and handed out 10 assists.

Kelly Green and Knox Gold And DiMaggio Looks Weird

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe DiMaggio's old No. 5 has been retired for all time at Yankee Stadium. A chunk of the Yankee Clipper's pinstriped uniform hangs in a place of honor with Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4.

But DiMaggio was back in action at the big Stadium Monday afternoon, wearing the Kelly green and Fort Knox gold uniform of the Oakland Athletics. He had the white kangaroo shoes, too, and the familiar No. 5 was on his back.

It wasn't exactly a fit day for a homecoming for an old hero. A Monday afternoon, clouds hanging low and only a few fans (8,579) in the stands.

Joe D. stood near the batting cage, shaking hands with old friends and talking about his new job as executive vice president and coach for the transplanted A's.

"The most heartwarming thing that happened to me," DiMaggio said, "was the way all the old employees come up to me and wished me luck."

How did DiMaggio feel, pulling against the Yanks after all those years on the other side?

"Look, I know all these kids or 90 per cent of them. Mickey is a great guy. He's an old friend, and I hope he plays for years and hits plenty—but not against our club."

If it seems strange to old Yankee fans that a folk hero comes back to town in an enemy uniform, don't blame Joe D. When a fellow asked Joe how close he had been to returning to the Yanks, he shook his head and said: "Nobody ever asked me."

Orange Tossers Hand UCCC 5-1 Defeat

A reshuffled Ulster County Community College baseball team allowed two runs in the first inning to Orange County Community College, and the Colts Ralph Hoover made that stand up as OCCC took UCCC, 5-1 yesterday afternoon in a Mid-Hudson Conference clash.

The game, halted by rain in the second inning, saw the revamped Senators succomb to the strong pitching of the Colts Hoover, and at the same time, force UCCC mentor, Al DiBernardo, to start a pitcher he was saving for Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sam Jones isn't ready for a rocking chair just yet.

The 34-year-old sharpshooting guard of the Boston Celtics may need a breather now and then, but he's as tough as ever in the clutch. If you don't believe it, ask the Philadelphia 76ers.

Philadelphia was all set Monday night to finish off the Celtics in their best of 7 game Eastern final in the National Basketball Association. The 76ers led 3-1 and were at home before a sellout crowd of 15,202. Everything pointed to a Boston fade out.

Something went wrong with the script. Boston won 122-104. Old and tired Sam Jones fired in 37 points.

"When you're down 3-1," said Old Sam after he finished shooting up the 76ers, "You just pull up your socks and get the job done."

Jones connected on 15 of 27 from the field and threw a natural at the foul line—7 for 11. He broke the back of the team he describes as the strongest physically he's ever seen.

So, the series headed back to Boston for the sixth game Wednesday night. A seventh, if necessary is slated for Philadelphia Friday night.

Jones didn't put down the defending champions all by himself. John Havlicek poured in 29 points and handed out 10 assists.

Torrid Twins Heading For Cool Minnesota

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spring has been a little late this year in Minnesota, but a heat wave is on the way.

Big Bob Allison and the torrid Twins are coming home.

While temperatures hovered around the freezing mark in Minneapolis-St. Paul Monday night, Allison continued his early-season hitting binge with two doubles and a triple at Baltimore as the unbeaten Twins whipped the Orioles 6-3 for their fifth straight road victory.

Allison led American League hitters with a .550 average and the Twins topped the AL standings as they headed back to Minnesota for Wednesday's home opener against Washington.

The Senators blanked California 7-0 behind Camilo Pascual's six-hit, nine-strikeout pitching and the Oakland A's downed the New York Yankees 6-3 in American League day games. Detroit and Boston were rained out and Cleveland and Chicago were not scheduled.

Eight Out of Nine

Allison doubled in the second inning, tripled in the fourth and doubled again in the sixth—giving him eight hits in nine at-bats—before going out in his last two trips to the plate. The former Kansas fullback, who drove in one run and scored two, has gone 11-for-20 over-all, with four doubles, one triple and one homer.

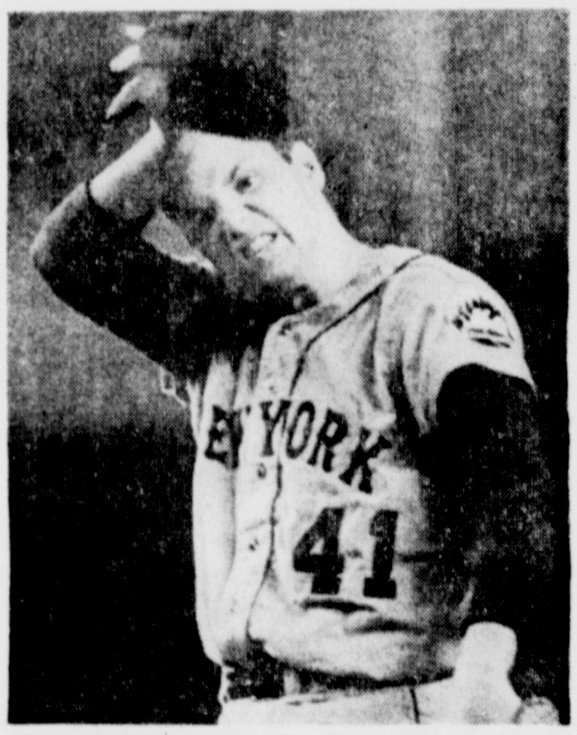

Right-hander Dave Boswell overcame a shaky start and held the Orioles to four hits. Tony Oliva's seventh inning single broke a 3-3 tie and Harmon Killebrew singled home two insurance runs in the ninth.

At Washington, Pascual became the only active American League pitcher to reach the 2,000 strikeout mark when he fanned the Angels' Chuck Hinton in the fourth inning.

The 34-year-old right-hander, who missed the last three weeks of the 1967 season after breaking his left ankle in a game to California, finished the day with a total of 2,007 strikeouts and the 33rd shutout of his career.

Ken McMullen and Sam Bowens homered for the Senators who wrapped up the victory with a five-run burst in the fifth.

Ramon Webster drilled a triple and homer, driving in three runs, and rookie Reggie Jackson delivered two more with a homer as the A's downed New York on five hits until the ninth, when Tom Tresh pounded Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre.

METS STARTING pitcher Tom Seaver wipes sweat from brow in the 10th inning of a record 24-inning game Monday night at Astrodome in Houston. Seaver was taken out in the 10th inning after giving up two hits. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Kelly Green and Knox Gold And DiMaggio Looks Weird

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe DiMaggio's old No. 5 has been retired for all time at Yankee Stadium. A chunk of the Yankee Clipper's pinstriped uniform hangs in a place of honor with Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4.

But DiMaggio was back in action at the big Stadium Monday afternoon, wearing the Kelly green and Fort Knox gold uniform of the Oakland Athletics. He had the white kangaroo shoes, too, and the familiar No. 5 was on his back.

It wasn't exactly a fit day for a homecoming for an old hero. A Monday afternoon, clouds hanging low and only a few fans (8,579) in the stands.

Joe D. stood near the batting cage, shaking hands with old friends and talking about his new job as executive vice president and coach for the transplanted A's.

"The most heartwarming thing that happened to me," DiMaggio said, "was the way all the old employees come up to me and wished me luck."

How did DiMaggio feel, pulling against the Yanks after all those years on the other side?

"Look, I know all these kids or 90 per cent of them. Mickey is a great guy. He's an old friend, and I hope he plays for years and hits plenty—but not against our club."

If it seems strange to old Yankee fans that a folk hero comes back to town in an enemy uniform, don't blame Joe D. When a fellow asked Joe how close he had been to returning to the Yanks, he shook his head and said: "Nobody ever asked me."

Strong Hurling, First Frame Rally, Gives KHS Opener

Kingston High baseball coach Mike Rienzo was worried about the ability of his Maron to hit. He wasn't worried too much about the pitching, figuring it would have to carry the hitting for the early part of the season.

Monday, he witnessed both come through in fine fashion.

It was Charlie Janes, Rienzo's top pitcher, who fanned 16 Arlington batters and a first inning rally, highlighted by Gary Schatzel's two-run double that gave the Maroon and Rienzo, a happy, opening game, 4-1, win.

Janes, one of the top pitchers in the area, came through for Rienzo in outstanding form, allowing five hits, one walk and the only run, a fifth inning tally, when two of the hits came.

All safeties off Janes were singles. The only extra base hit double as the Admirals hurler, Dick Rathbun, gave up five singles plus Schatzel's game-winning blow. He struck out 11.

Janes set the Admirals down one-two-three in the top of the first. The Maroon, eager to get things rolling quickly, scored all three runs in their half of the inning after two were out.

This put men on first and second with Schatzel coming up. On a two-and-one count, Schatzel drilled a line drive into shallow left-center. The ball dipped sharply, going between the two charging outfielders. Corrado and Rios raced for home and scored standing up.

Jeff Perry came up and pomptly banged out a single to left-center, scoring Schatzel with the Maroon's third tally.

In the third, the Maroon applied the icer, using a single, and two errors.

Corrado, with one out, was safe on an error. Rios followed with a single in the hole between third and short, sending Corrado all the way to third. Up came Schatzel, but this time, he grounded to the shortstop, who held Corrado. The throw to second to get Rios went wild allowing Rios to make it to third as Corrado scored. Schatzel wound up on second, but he and Rios died there.

In the fifth, Janes gave up a single to Joe Nemes, fanned catcher Dave Miller, then walked second sacker Nick Sillin. He whiffed Ed Stokes to make the situation two on, two out. Bert Alley, playing short for the Admirals, singled to center to score Nemes, but Janes ended it by striking out the last batter (thus striking out the side), pinch hitter Dick Burgher.

Rondout Nips Ellies In Road Contest, 6-5

Rondout Valley's Ganders came through with two runs in the seventh as they topped Ellenville 6-5 at Ellenville.

Rondout led 4-2 until the last of the sixth, when Ellenville tallied three times to make it 5-4. William Bagliebter walked for the Blue Devils, then Bob Bagliebter singled to drive him in. Dave Sinick doubled to put Ellenville ahead.

Rondout tallied twice in the final inning to win the game. Bob Schaeffer punched a single, was sacrificed around to second, then scored on a single by Keith Gorham to tie the ball game. Tom Frazier and Gary Heinitz both singled to drive in Gorham and put Rondout ahead 6-5.

Ellenville let the tying run die on third in the bottom of the last inning.

Tom William won on a 10-hitter for the Ellies, fanning four and walking one. The Ganders picked up 13 blows off Don Bagliebter, who fanned six and walked one.

Bob Schaeffer of Rondout led the hitters with a triple and two singles. Heinitz stroked three singles. Houck rapped a triple and single for Ellies.

Rondout was scheduled at New Paltz this afternoon and Ellenville goes to New Paltz Wednesday.

Pay $3,800 Fines In Hockey Brawl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Blues, Chicago Black Hawks and Los Angeles Kings can take a major step toward the big money Stanley Cup finals tonight. But the Blues and Philadelphia Flyers already have paid a hefty price for their brawl-filled quarter-final series.

St. Louis, Chicago and Los Angeles each lead 3-2 in games in their best-of-seven series against the Flyers, New York Rangers and Minnesota North Stars, respectively. The Blues and Black Hawks will be at home while the Kings will play on the North Stars' ice.

Victories by the three leaders will set up semifinal series matching St. Louis and Los Angeles in the West Division and the Black Hawks against Montreal in the East. The Canadiens swept Boston 4-0 in their opening round set.

Players and coaches of the Blues and Flyers were fined a total of $3,800 Monday by Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League President, for their part in a brawl during last Saturday's sixth game in Philadelphia. Coach Keith Allen of Philadelphia was assessed $500 and Scotty Bowman, the Blues' skipper, was fined $400. In all, 25 players, 13 on the Blues, and on Philadelphia, were fined amounts ranging from $100 to $275.

Jayvees Annex 10-6 Win Over Arlington

Hitless in the first four innings, Kingston High Jayvees erupted for eight runs in the fifth and went on to defeat Arlington Jayvees, 10-6, in the seasonal opener Monday at Arlington.

Two bloop singles and five Maroon errors gave Arlington a quick 5-0 lead in the first inning, but pitcher Mike Milano remained calm. He retired nine in a row, struck out 12 and finshed with a 5-hitter.

Five hits and three walks accounted for Kingston's harvest of eight in the fifth. The key blows were Harold Anderson's triple off the fence in deep left and Ralph Perry's bases-loaded double.

Don Fisher tripled in a run in the sixth and Joe Tiano singled Anderson, who had tripled, home with the final run in the seventh.

Anderson slugged two triples and Perry hit a double and single. Montalto picked up three of the five Arlington safeties, a double and two singletons.

2,000 Strikeout Ball to Pascual

WASHINGTON (AP) — Camilo Pascual has a ball commemorating his 2,000th strikeout and the Senator's pitcher will also treasure it as a reminder of his 33rd shutout, which keeps him on top of the American League pitchers. He is six ahead of Dean Chance of Minnesota.

Pascual fanned nine as the Senators beat the California Angels 7-0 Monday and Chuck Hinton, his second victim, gave Pascual his 2,000th strikeout.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Jim Bunning of the Pittsburgh Pirates, both in the National League, are the only other active major league pitchers with over 2,000 strikeouts. Pascual was the 19th man in major league history to accomplish the feat.

Dukes Are Winners, 8-4 Count

Marlboro, with the score knotted at 4-all, came through with a last-inning four run rally to hand Cornwall a stunning 8-4, home loss yesterday in baseball.

Cornwall jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first two innings. The Iron Dukes came back, chipping away at the lead with single runs in each of the next four frames to take a 4-3 lead after the top of the sixth. Cornwall tied it with a run in the bottom of that frame and set the stage for the final-frame explosion that ensued.

Marlboro used three singles and three errors to score its four runs, with sub Dom Porpiglia scoring the winning tally. Marlboro is now 3-1 on the season and opens its UCAL schedule today at Onteora.

Strong Hurling, First Frame Rally, Gives KHS Opener

Kingston High baseball coach Mike Rienzo was worried about the ability of his Maron to hit. He wasn't worried too much about the pitching, figuring it would have to carry the hitting for the early part of the season Monday, he witnessed both come through in fine fashion.

It was Charlie Janes, Rienzo's top pitcher, who fanned 16 Arlington batters and a first inning rally, highlighted by Gary Schatzel's two-run double that gave the Maroon and Rienzo, a happy, opening game, 4-1, win.

Janes, one of the top pitchers in the area, came through for Rienzo in outstanding form, allowing five hits, one walk and the only run, a fifth inning tally, when two of the hits came.

All safeties off Janes were singles. The only extra base hit double as the Admirals hurler, Dick Rathbun, gave up five singles plus Schatzel's game-winning blow. He struck out 11.

Janes set the Admirals down one-two-three in the top of the first. The Maroon, eager to get things rolling quickly, scored all three runs in their half of the inning after two were out.

This put men on first and second with Schatzel coming up. On a two-and-one count, Schatzel drilled a line drive into shallow left-center. The ball dipped sharply, going between the two charging outfielders. Corrado and Rios raced for home and scored standing up.

Jeff Perry came up and pomptly banged out a single to left-center, scoring Schatzel with the Maroon's third tally.

In the third, the Maroon applied the icer, using a single, and two errors.

Corrado, with one out, was safe on an error. Rios followed with a single in the hole between third and short, sending Corrado all the way to third. Up came Schatzel, but this time, he grounded to the shortstop, who held Corrado. The throw to second to get Rios went wild allowing Rios to make it to third as Corrado scored. Schatzel wound up on second, but he and Rios died there.

In the fifth, Janes gave up a single to Joe Nemes, fanned catcher Dave Miller, then walked second sacker Nick Sillin. He whiffed Ed Stokes to make the situation two on, two out. Bert Alley, playing short for the Admirals, singled to center to score Nemes, but Janes ended it by striking out the last batter (thus striking out the side), pinch hitter Dick Burgher.

Rondout Nips Ellies In Road Contest, 6-5

Rondout Valley's Ganders came through with two runs in the seventh as they topped Ellenville 6-5 at Ellenville.

Rondout led 4-2 until the last of the sixth, when Ellenville tallied three times to make it 5-4. William Bagliebter walked for the Blue Devils, then Bob Bagliebter singled to drive him in. Dave Sinick doubled to put Ellenville ahead.

Rondout tallied twice in the final inning to win the game. Bob Schaeffer punched a single, was sacrificed around to second, then scored on a single by Keith Gorham to tie the ball game. Tom Frazier and Gary Heinitz both singled to drive in Gorham and put Rondout ahead 6-5.

Ellenville let the tying run die on third in the bottom of the last inning.

Tom William won on a 10-hitter for the Ellies, fanning four and walking one. The Ganders picked up 13 blows off Don Bagliebter, who fanned six and walked one.

Bob Schaeffer of Rondout led the hitters with a triple and two singles. Heinitz stroked three singles. Houck rapped a triple and single for Ellies.

Rondout was scheduled at New Paltz this afternoon and Ellenville goes to New Paltz Wednesday.

Pay $3,800 Fines In Hockey Brawl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Blues, Chicago Black Hawks and Los Angeles Kings can take a major step toward the big money Stanley Cup finals tonight. But the Blues and Philadelphia Flyers already have paid a hefty price for their brawl-filled quarter-final series.

St. Louis, Chicago and Los Angeles each lead 3-2 in games in their best-of-seven series against the Flyers, New York Rangers and Minnesota North Stars, respectively. The Blues and Black Hawks will be at home while the Kings will play on the North Stars' ice.

Victories by the three leaders will set up semifinal series matching St. Louis and Los Angeles in the West Division and the Black Hawks against Montreal in the East. The Canadiens swept Boston 4-0 in their opening round set.

Players and coaches of the Blues and Flyers were fined a total of $3,800 Monday by Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League President, for their part in a brawl during last Saturday's sixth game in Philadelphia. Coach Keith Allen of Philadelphia was assessed $500 and Scotty Bowman, the Blues' skipper, was fined $400. In all, 25 players, 13 on the Blues, and on Philadelphia, were fined amounts ranging from $100 to $275.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sandra Haynie hasn't won a Women's Golf tournament yet in 1968. But close finishes have boosted her into the lead in money winnings on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, LPGA headquarters announced today.

In the first four tournaments of the 1968 tour Miss Haynie has won $3,908. That put her less than $100 ahead of Kathy Whitworth, who has won one tournament and $3,837.

Milano Hurls 5-Hitter

Jayvees Annex 10-6 Win Over Arlington

Hitless in the first four innings, Kingston High Jayvees erupted for eight runs in the fifth and went on to defeat Arlington Jayvees, 10-6, in the seasonal opener Monday at Arlington.

Two bloop singles and five Maroon errors gave Arlington a quick 5-0 lead in the first inning, but pitcher Mike Milano remained calm. He retired nine in a row, struck out 12 and finshed with a 5-hitter.

Five hits and three walks accounted for Kingston's harvest of eight in the fifth. The key blows were Harold Anderson's triple off the fence in deep left and Ralph Perry's bases-loaded double.

Don Fisher tripled in a run in the sixth and Joe Tiano singled Anderson, who had tripled, home with the final run in the seventh.

Anderson slugged two triples and Perry hit a double and single. Montalto picked up three of the five Arlington safeties, a double and two singletons.

2,000 Strikeout Ball to Pascual

WASHINGTON (AP) — Camilo Pascual has a ball commemorating his 2,000th strikeout and the Senator's pitcher will also treasure it as a reminder of his 33rd shutout, which keeps him on top of the American League pitchers. He is six ahead of Dean Chance of Minnesota.

Pascual fanned nine as the Senators beat the California Angels 7-0 Monday and Chuck Hinton, his second victim, gave Pascual his 2,000th strikeout.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Jim Bunning of the Pittsburgh Pirates, both in the National League, are the only other active major league pitchers with over 2,000 strikeouts. Pascual was the 19th man in major league history to accomplish the feat.

The Viet Entanglement Can Be Traced to WW 2

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Most of the half-million U.S. servicemen in Vietnam today were not yet born when the curtain rose on the drama of American involvement there.

If U.S.-North Vietnamese contacts bring negotiations leading to peace, it will be the first peace Vietnam has known in a quarter century. In that time U.S. involvement progressed from tenuous American links with Vietnam to a U.S. commitment of a mighty army and the deaths of 22,000 Americans.

Complex Story

The American entanglement is a complex story which can be dated to World War II when a wispy revolutionary named Ho Chi Minh—born Nguyen Ai Quoc—was in China forming his Viet Nam Doc Lap Dong Minh Hoi, or League for Independence of Vietnam, called Viet Minh for short.

Vietnam, made up of Tonkin, Annam and Cochin China, was part of the French colony of Indochina also embracing Laos and Cambodia. Overrun by the Japanese, it was then administered by the Vichy government of occupied France.

Americans in the wartime OSS—Office of Strategic Services—helped train Ho and his guerrillas and sent them across into Tonkin from China to harass the Japanese, along with a handful of American advisers on jungle war. If the Americans were aware of Ho's background as a cofounder of the Chinese Communist party and a Communist International agent, they probably felt his usefulness against the Japanese would outweigh his past.

The wheel of history turned slowly. With World War II ended, the West forgot declared promises of self-determination. Gen. Charles de Gaulle, in power in newly liberated France, quickly sent troops to Indochina to reassert the French colonial claim. At Potsdam the United States, Russia and Britain decided the British would occupy South Vietnam and the Nationalist Chinese of Chiang Kai-shek the North, to disarm the Japanese.

The first returning Frenchmen saw slogans everywhere in Vietnam reminding the West of its promises of independence for colonial countries. Ho Chi Minh had been entrenching himself in the North, but in the South the French installed Bao Dai, a pliant emperor, at the head of a supposedly autonomous Vietnam. In the South, also, the British systematically turned over authority to the returning French, enraging Vietnamese intellectuals.

Modeled on 1776

In September 1945 Ho issued a declaration of independence modeled on the American declaration of 1776. He began bargaining with the French for independence and France promised it. Ho expressed himself as willing to accept the status of free state in an Indochinese federation within the French Union. Ho and his chief military aid, Vo Nguyen Giap, even welcomed a French expeditionary force and joined them in a liberation parade.

But Ho also began to feel that the French were reneging on their promises. From Viet Minh headquarters, Gen. Giap issued a call for an uprising. War began in earnest at the end of 1946.

There was no extraordinary alarm about this in the United States until after the Communists seized China in 1949. Seeing a threat of Communist envelopment of Southeast Asia, the United States recognized the Bao Dai regime and sent a Military Assistance Advisory Group to help the French. Under President Harry S. Truman, it was a modest beginning: an outlay of $25 million for 1950-51.

Then came the Korean War, bringing rising alarm to Americans over Communist aims in Asia. American aid was stepped up in Vietnam. By 1954, under President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the United States had invested $2.6 billion. And Communist China was shipping military supplies across the border to the Viet Minh in Tonkin.

The end of the Korean War brought an international conference in Geneva in 1954 to deal with leftover political problems. On Korea it got nowhere, and it turned to the question of Indochina. While the deliberations went on, Giap delivered his coup de grace to the French at Dien Bien Phu.

Early May 8, 1954 the plaintive message came from the battered French fortress: "C'est fini"—It is over. The United States had denied France air support because it considered the French situation hopeless.

The Geneva negotiations brought a cease-fire July 20 and partition of Vietnam. A final declaration spoke of all-Vietnam elections in 1956, but neither the Americans nor South Vietnamese signed it and it lacked treaty force. Emperor Bao Dai called Ngo Dinh Diem to be his premier, and Diem, a member of a mandarin family and the Roman Catholic minority, soon reduced the emperor to the status of figurehead. He took up his task at a time of chaos in a South Vietnam which was a sea of corruption.

Thereafter the story of American involvement developed like this:

Diem, backed by U.S. dollar aid, arranged a plebiscite which permitted him to throw out the emperor and proclaim a republic with himself as president, and to move against the forces of chaos and corruption, including the armed forces of several religious sects. Americans began to regard him as a miracle man. At that time there were just 300 U.S. military advisers in South Vietnam.

1956

There were no elections. The last of the French military left. The Viet Minh, who had laid low in the South after the partition, limited themselves to stab attacks and sporadic terror while they patiently built their organization.

1957-59

By this time there were 692 U.S. military advisers in South Vietnam. Armed guerrillas were infiltrating from North to South, many of them Southerners who had gone North after the partition. They began taking over outpost after outpost.

1960-61

The Lao Dong (Communist) party in the North called for full revolt in the South to bring "complete liberation for national unity," and proposed formation of a "National Liberation Front" in the South. This was done by the end of 1960, and it became the political arm of the guerrillas, whom Diem dubbed "Viet Cong," short for Vietnamese Communist. The guerrillas were deeply entrenched in the rich Mekong Delta rice area, acting like a government, taxing, administering, propagandizing, recruiting and executing any who collaborated with the Saigon government.

Lyndon B. Johnson, as vice president under John F. Kennedy, first saw Vietnam in 1961 on a mission to assess the situation there. And in 1961 came the first American death toll: 11 Americans killed.

Alarmed by Communist pressure on the borders of Thailand from Laos, President Kennedy stepped up military aid to South Vietnam to 4,000 advisers early in the year. The figure reached 8,000 by May and 10,000 by October. The Southeast Asia situation was so alarming that it brought about a new Geneva conference, this time on Laos, supposed to guarantee that nation's neutrality. Laos was threatened by a Pathet Lao—Communist-led—insurrection aided by North Vietnam and the Chinese Communists. In 1962, 31 Americans died in Vietnam.

1963

President Diem, influenced by his brother, Nhu, and Nhu's wife, carried out harsh measures against any suspected of opposing him. Diem ran into a Buddhist rebellion in May, which marked the beginning of his end.

President Kennedy sent more military advisers. By October, there were 14,000 American military men on hand.

In November, Diem and his brother died in a coup d'etat, only weeks before an assassin ended the life of President Kennedy. A new military regime took over in Saigon. By the end of 1963, there were 16,500 U.S. military advisers in South Vietnam; that year 78 Americans died.

By midyear, under President Johnson, the number of U.S. military advisers jumped to 21,500 as the Viet Cong, seeing advantage in Saigon's political instability, stepped up their revolutionary pressure. They seemed close to victory at that time. Then came the Tonkin Gulf incident. Washington announced that North Vietnamese torpedo boats had attacked U.S. warships in the gulf.

The President asked Congress for authority to take "all necessary measures in support of freedom and in defense of peace in Southeast Asia."

Congress adopted such a resolution, and the way was open for a policy of air strikes against North Vietnam. By the end of 1964 there were 23,000 "adviser" troops in Vietnam and American deaths brought the total since 1961 to 267.

In February, while Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was visiting Hanoi, Viet Cong in the South smashed in Pleiku, an outpost in the central highlands. In a 15 - minute battle, eight Americans died and 16 were wounded.

Four hours later an angered President Johnson had authorized a U.S. air raid on Dong Hoi in North Vietnam, 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone. "We seek no wider war," the President said, but the policy of retaliatory raids was established, and the word "escalation" came into common use.

The war intensified, the Viet Cong scenting victory in the South's chaotic political situation. The United States dropped the "advisory" role for U.S. troops—to save a swiftly deteriorating situation, American troops were authorized for combat.

Marines landed at Da Nang to protect the U.S. air base there. By the end of March, U.S. troops in Vietnam totaled 27,000; by early June, more than 50,000 and finally, by December, 200,000. American casualties rose to 1,369 killed, 6,114 wounded.

A series of peace probes got nowhere. There had been a pause in the bombing of North Vietnam at the end of 1965 to await a response but Washington said there was none. The pause ended after 37 days and U.S. planes struck heavily in attempts to interdict infiltration of supplies and men. At midyear, the first U.S. bombs hit the Hanoi and Haiphong areas. By August there were 300,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam; by year's end, 400,000. U.S. casualties stood at 5,008 killed, 30,093 wounded.

Despite a declared truce for Tet, the lunar new year, the four-day period saw 177 clashes costing the lives of 20 Americans and 101 enemy. In the spring, U.S. bombers began using bases in Thailand for bombing Vietnam targets. 8

The demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams became a battleground. Americans said enemy forces sought sanctuary there, but Hanoi rejected a proposal to pull troops back 10 miles from each side of the DMZ.

At midyear there were 450,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam. In the United States, opposition to the war was rising. With the dissent came demonstrations, draft card burnings, clashes in Washington between "hawks" and "doves." The year ended with total U.S. casualties from 1961 at 15,812 dead, 99,305 wounded.

As the year began, excitement had been generated by a change in the syntax of the Hanoi stand. Now Hanoi was saying that an end to acts of war against the North "will" lead to talks, rather than "could." But the war became even fiercer. On Jan. 20, North Vietnam began a 71-day siege of 6,000 U.S. Marines at Khe Sanh.

There were 511,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam by the end of January, when firecrackers in the cities heralded the new year—the Year of the Monkey. A holiday truce was supposed to be in effect, and half the South Vietnam armed forces were on Tet leave.

Suddenly the Communist-led forces launched their greatest offensive so far, with attacks on major population centers all over South Vietnam. A suicide squad of commandos attacked the new $2.5-million U.S. Embassy in Saigon. Reds in force hit Hue and four weeks of fighting reduced the old imperial city to rubble. They hit U.S. air bases and communications around the country.

Saigon proclaimed martial law. Troops were pulled back from rural areas to protect urban centers and many months of patient work in the "revolutionary development" program of pacification went down the drain.

In Saigon alone the fighting left 50,000 homeless, with a large area of the Cholon section flattened. More than 200,000 were made homeless around the nation, adding to an already huge refugee burden.

'Fiercest Phase'

Gen. Giap, architect of the Dien Bien Phu battle, declared that "the fiercest phase" of the war had begun. But the Communists, by American accounts, had lost 50,000 dead and huge amounts of equipment in their major effort; if, as advertised, they expected a popular uprising to follow the attacks, the offensive failed in that respect.

On March 10, U.S. and allied troops began a counteroffensive dubbed Resolved to Win, concentrating in areas around Saigon. Meanwhile, President Johnson announced the U.S. commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, would become Army chief of staff. Later Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, his deputy, was named to succeed Westmoreland.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Food Minister Jagjivan Ram says 90 per cent of the jobs in India are monopolized by people drawn from a segment of 10 per cent of the population.

Ram, a leader of India's 60 million untouchables, said only 20 per cent of this nation's 510 million people can read and write. Of them, less than half, belonging to higher castes, are qualified to hold good jobs.

"Democracy can not have any meaning unless opportunities for employment are open to the entire community," he told a conference.

The Viet Entanglement Can Be Traced to WW 2

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Most of the half-million U.S. servicemen in Vietnam today were not yet born when the curtain rose on the drama of American involvement there.

If U.S.-North Vietnamese contacts bring negotiations leading to peace, it will be the first peace Vietnam has known in a quarter century. In that time U.S. involvement progressed from tenuous American links with Vietnam to a U.S. commitment of a mighty army and the deaths of 22,000 Americans.

Complex Story

The American entanglement is a complex story which can be dated to World War II when a wispy revolutionary named Ho Chi Minh—born Nguyen Ai Quoc—was in China forming his Viet Nam Doc Lap Dong Minh Hoi, or League for Independence of Vietnam, called Viet Minh for short.

A suicide squad of commandos attacked the new $2.5-million U.S. Embassy in Saigon; Reds in force hit Hue and four weeks of fighting reduced the old imperial city to rubble. They hit U.S. air bases and communications around the country.

Saigon proclaimed martial law. Troops were pulled back from rural areas to protect urban centers and many months of patient work in the "revolutionary development" program of pacification went down the drain.

'Fiercest Phase'

Gen. Giap, architect of the Dien Bien Phu battle, declared that "the fiercest phase" of the war had begun. But the Communists, by American accounts, had lost 50,000 dead and huge amounts of equipment in their major effort; if, as advertised, they expected a popular uprising to follow the attacks, the offensive failed in that respect.

On March 10, U.S. and allied troops began a counteroffensive dubbed Resolved to Win, concentrating in areas around Saigon. Meanwhile, President Johnson announced the U.S. commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, would become Army chief of staff. Later Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, his deputy, was named to succeed Westmoreland.

Unequal Division

NEW DELHI (AP) — Food Minister Jagjivan Ram says 90 per cent of the jobs in India are monopolized by people drawn from a segment of 10 per cent of the population.

Ram, a leader of India's 60 million untouchables, said only 20 per cent of this nation s 510 million people can read and write. Of them, less than half, belonging to higher castes, are qualified to hold good jobs.

"Democracy can not have any meaning unless opportunities for employment are open to the entire community," he told a conference.

Road Work Slated At County Sites

Governor Rockefeller announced today that the State Department of Transportation will open bids on May 23 for a project to improve 10.35 miles of combined Routes 44 and 55 in the Towns of Gardiner, Rochester and Wawarsing at an estimated cost of $1,580,000.

The present pavement will be resurfaced with asphalt between the Route 209 and the Route 299 intersections. Shoulders will be stabilized, drainage facilities augmented and improved and new box-beam guide railing installed.

The highway bridges over Rondout Creek, Stony Kill and Coxing Kill will be rehabilitated as part of the proposed contract.

Governor Rockefeller said the Ulster County project is part of a constant and continuing statewide program to improve and upgrade older roads in the State highway system.

The bid opening will cover 32 highway projects and one canal job with an estimated total cost of $47,210,000.

Work will involve construction, reconstruction, or other improvements to transportation facilities in 30 counties.

Included in the massive program will be construction of a 0.32-mile connector road between Routes 44 and 55 in the Town of Poughkeepsie estimated to cost about $879,000 and the pavement resurfacing of 3.9 miles of Route 203 in the Towns of Chatham and Kinderhook, Columbia County, estimated at $258,000.

There will be an installation of new traffic signs on 16.5 miles of Interstate Route 84 in the Towns of Fishkill and East Fishkill in Dutchess County.

'Next Decade' Conference Is Set April 25

The Hudson River Valley Commission is asking Dutchess County citizens and officials to participate in planning for the future of the county's riverside areas.

The commission and the county are jointly sponsoring a conference on "the Next Decade" in Dutchess County Thursday, April 25, at Ely Hall, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie.

County executive David C. Schoentag will be co-chairman of the meeting with Alexander Aldrich, HRVC's executive director.

The conference will be the eighth in a series of meetings that the commission is holding in counties along the Hudson to obtain local information and guidance in preparing a comprehensive plan for the valley, covering an area up to two miles back from either shore.

"By legislative mandate," Aldrich said, "the plan is going to be developed in consultation with local governments and private groups along the River. In order to provide a workable frame of reference for the discussions, we are focusing on the next decade, but we are definitely interested in views on planning over a longer term."

The Albany conference, like others in the series, is being organized by a steering committee of county officials and citizens.

As the bus comes within 50 feet of a receiver, its signal is picked up and transmitted to a central computer location.

Coffee is all we make. And we've found a way to make it better. A cup of coffee gets its flavor from what scientists call "available flavor solids." We have developed a new way of blending and roasting that gives our coffee more of these flavor solids than other leading coffees. As the chart shows—13% more, 14% more, even 15% more! You get a cup of coffee that has more flavor, more body, more strength. Even with cream and sugar the richer coffee flavor comes through. Enjoy some soon.

Fathers' Weekend At Bennett College

From East Coast to West, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf States, and from points in between, some 175 fathers of Bennett College students are expected to converge on Millbrook Friday for the college's annual Fathers' Week End.

As hostesses, the girls will shepherd their fathers through three busy days of events aimed to edify as well as to entertain. The schedule will begin with a welcoming dinner Friday, followed with a concert that evening by Henry L. Scott of Rhinebeck. Scott, who is the father of a Bennett alumna, is billed as "America's first concert humorist." Because of limited seating capacity in its theater, the college regretfully must limit his audience to the fathers, their daughters, other students, and Bennett personnel.

Saturday morning's schedule is serious, consisting of classroom visits and opportunity for the fathers to meet and talk with their daughters' instructors. At noon that day a meeting of fathers only will be addressed by President Donald A. Eldridge and by Joseph Griesedieck, president of the Falstaff Brewing Corp. of St. Louis, who for the past year has served as chairman of the Bennett Fathers' Committee. Immediately after the meeting Griesedieck will be succeeded as chairman by Charlton T. Fuller, chairman of the executive committee of the Allentown (Pa.) Portland Cement Co. As is traditional, the outgoing chairman is the father of a Bennett senior; the incoming chairman's daughter is in the freshman class.

After a buffet luncheon, the rest of Saturday will be given over to fun—with a carnival in the afternoon, followed in rapid succession by President and Mrs. Eldridge's reception for fathers and faculty, a father-daughter banquet, and a father-daughter dance.

Except for a meeting of the Fathers' Committee, no formal events are scheduled for Sunday, though golf and tennis will be available to any not too pooped pops. The week end comes to an official close at 2:30 that afternoon.

Hints from Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For awhile, our baby was eating only a few spoons of baby food at a time. I found that by boiling a very heavy two-ounce measuring glass in water and filling it with strained baby food, then stirring it..provided about the right amount.

Also the heat of the thick glass was enough to warm the food to the right temperature in just a few minutes. This way I was not tempted to reheat used, leftover baby food since I understand it's better not to do so.

RUTH

Ruth, I think you're just tops for figuring that one out. However, let me hasten to explain something.

For years mothers have complained about baby food being watery after it's been opened, a portion of it used, and the rest set back in the refrigerator. Many mothers add cereal to it so it will thicken again.

We thought it was a certain type of brand that did this but that wasn't the culprit at all!

This watery substance is caused by mothers feeding their baby direct from the jar. The saliva from the baby's mouth which remains on the spoon when mother reaches in for another spoonful, starts a chemical reaction in what's left in the jar of food when you put it back in the refrigerator.

When you need to add or remove a leaf from the dining table and are alone, try this:

Lie on your back under the table, push on the two outside boards of the expanding part with your feet and pull on the legs with your hands. Will sure do the trick!

Dear Heloise:

Instead of keeping waxed paper in the cardboard container it comes in, remove the roll from the carton and slip it into the front of one of your kitchen drawers.

When needed, pull out the amount you want and give a quick pull downward on the front edge of the drawer. Makes a neat, clean tear and is much quicker than fumbling around with the box.

Dear Heloise:

One of the little things most college students need is a set of bookends.

I got an old shoe box, discarded the top and cut the bottom in half. I set each half on my desk with the cut side up and filled them with books.

Fathers' Weekend At Bennett College

From East Coast to West, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf States, and from points in between, some 175 fathers of Bennett College students are expected to converge on Millbrook Friday for the college's annual Fathers' Week End.

As hostesses, the girls will shepherd their fathers through three busy days of events aimed to edify as well as to entertain. The schedule will begin with a welcoming dinner Friday, followed with a concert that evening by Henry L. Scott of Rhinebeck. Scott, who is the father of a Bennett alumna, is billed as "America's first concert humorist." Because of limited seating capacity in its theater, the college regretfully must limit his audience to the fathers, their daughters, other students, and Bennett personnel.

Saturday morning's schedule is serious, consisting of classroom visits and opportunity for the fathers to meet and talk with their daughters' instructors. At noon that day a meeting of fathers only will be addressed by President Donald A. Eldridge and by Joseph Griesedieck, president of the Falstaff Brewing Corp. of St. Louis, who for the past year has served as chairman of the Bennett Fathers' Committee. Immediately after the meeting Griesedieck will be succeeded as chairman by Charlton T. Fuller, chairman of the executive committee of the Allentown (Pa.) Portland Cement Co. As is traditional, the outgoing chairman is the father of a Bennett senior; the incoming chairman's daughter is in the freshman class.

After a buffet luncheon, the rest of Saturday will be given over to fun—with a carnival in the afternoon, followed in rapid succession by President and Mrs. Eldridge's reception for fathers and faculty, a father-daughter banquet, and a father-daughter dance.

Except for a meeting of the Fathers' Committee, no formal events are scheduled for Sunday, though golf and tennis will be available to any not too pooped pops. The week end comes to an official close at 2:30 that afternoon.

Paltz Resident Wins Fulbright Grant

Miss Barbara Wood, 33 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, a 1967 cum laude graduate of State University College, New Paltz, has been awarded a Fulbright scholarship to study at the University of Bonn, Germany, this coming school year.

The grant will provide transportation, tuition, books, and 5000 Marks (about $1250) living expenses for Miss Wood, who is now teaching German at Newburgh Free Academy.

At New Paltz, the College's first known graduate to become a Fulbright winner held numerous high offices in the International Relations Association.

She is the daughter of Air Force Major William S. Wood, 432nd Combat Support Group, Thailand, and Mrs. Wood, Lawrence, Long Island.

Miss Wood attended the Ris Skole, Oslo, Norway, Bushey Hall dependents school in England, and was graduated from Hampton High School, Hampton, in 1963.

Wedding Is Announced Here

A Nuptial Mass, blessing the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Holt, took place Saturday, Mar. 23, at Our Lady of LaSallette Church, Boiceville. The Rev. John Gorman of St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The couple took their civil vows on Dec. 17, 1967.

Mrs. Holt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Ganci, Shokan. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Holt of Ashokan.

Mrs. Earl Proper sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Earl Proper. The altar was decorated with white floral arrangements.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of peau de soie fashioned with a crescent waistline and a high-necked bodice of Alencon lace and featured a bouffant train. A stylized headpiece held a silk illusioned veil. She carried a small circular arrangement of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Merleen Currey, Claryville, was maid of honor. She wore an empire, floor length gown with a royal blue velvet bodice and a romance blue A-line skirt. The gown was styled with a scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of blue and gold chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sheila Aronofsky, Olivebridge, and Miss Dorothy Holt, Ashokan, sister of the bridegroom. Their gold colored gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried nosegays of blue and gold chrysanthemums.

William Lawrensen, Latham, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Louis Ganci, Shokan, brother of the bride; Russell Holt, Ashokan, brother of the bridegroom; Robert Turner, Hawarth, N.J., cousin of the bridegroom.

After the wedding a reception for 150 guests was held at the Capri 400 Restaurant, Port Ewen.

The bride, a graduate of Onteora Central School, will graduate this year from State University of New York at Albany where she is a member of Psi Gamma, social sorority, and Mu Lambda Alpha and Signum Laudis, honoraries. Her husband, also a graduate of Onteora Central School, attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and Syracuse University. He is a 1969 candidate for graduation at State University of New York at Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt are residing at 2 Pinehurst Avenue, Albany.

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For awhile, our baby was eating only a few spoons of baby food at a time. I found that by boiling a very heavy two-ounce measuring glass in water and filling it with strained baby food, then stirring it..provided about the right amount.

Also the heat of the thick glass was enough to warm the food to the right temperature in just a few minutes. This way I was not tempted to reheat used, leftover baby food since I understand it's better not to do so.

RUTH

Ruth, I think you're just tops for figuring that one out. However, let me hasten to explain something.

For years mothers have complained about baby food being watery after it's been opened, a portion of it used, and the rest set back in the refrigerator. Many mothers add cereal to it so it will thicken again.

We thought it was a certain type of brand that did this but that wasn't the culprit at all!

This watery substance is caused by mothers feeding their baby direct from the jar. The saliva from the baby's mouth which remains on the spoon when mother reaches in for another spoonful, starts a chemical reaction in what's left in the jar of food when you put it back in the refrigerator.

Motto: Don't feed the baby from the jar unless he's going to eat all of it. Better to spoon out just what the baby will eat.

Heiress Living a Dog's Life

By JUDY PRUSNEK

SIMPSONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — What does an heiress do with the $5 bill her husband hands her each Monday for spending money?

Mamie Spears Reynolds Gregory, 25, sat in her $100,000 Civil War-era plantation home and pointed to her $1 shoes, $2 jeans, $12 sweater and dimestore earrings.

Mamie's fortune, left her from great-grandfather John McLean's gold and silver mines in Colorado and the Reynolds family tobacco interests, totaled $40 million when she eloped with Kentucky dog-handler Joe Gregory three years ago.

"Joe and I made this deal when we married," she said. "He'd handle all the money. I knew I'd go through it all if he didn't.

"He's really a marvelous tight-wad; I started with $10 a week . . .

Now, 27 pedigreed dogs, two yachts, several homes in Asheville, N.C., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a professional basketball team and a 15-month-old son named Charles later, Mamie said she doesn't know how much is in the till and doesn t much care.

"I wear a Timex watch but it doesn't mean I don't have jewelry. Some rings and watches and stuff worth thousands are still locked up in a New York vault."

As Mamie sees it, you "just can't knock around dog shows in family heirlooms."

Ziggy, a rather hairy Brussels Griffon, pitter-patted into the room after napping on Mamie's mink coat.

"We're just plain folks here," she said. "I live for my dogs."

The daughter of the late U.S. Senator and Mrs Robert Rice Reynolds of North Carolina has been showing dogs since the age of 8. Her 35-year-old husband from Cloverport, Ky., has been doing the same for the past 18 years.

The two met at a show in Asheville. It was not love at first sight and Mamie married a young Italian racing driver, Luigi Chinette, during one of her trips abroad in 1962. They were divorced three years later.

The dog shows, meanwhile, continued back in the United States.

"Joe and I had so much in common," Mamie said.

What she calls her "dog's life" is one reason the slim blonde isn't comfortable yet in her century-old Shelby County mansion, with its polar bear rug, gold-plated bathroom fixtures, giant paintings and antique chandeliers.

"The decorator wouldn't let me put my 400 dog trophies out," she said. "She called them 'cheap silver.'

"I never told her about Joe's 200 trophies in the garage. Had to hide the dog books, too.

"As soon as she left, I tossed out the fashionable magazines she had placed on all the tables. Who reads them? Not our dog crowd.

Mamie said only close friends would put up with Ziggy in his tuxedo at the dinner table anyway.

"Ziggy's my favorite. He's been the top griffon in the country for three years now.

"We even bought him a mink parka for the Kentucky Colonels games."

Mamie didn't always like basketball.

"The only time I'd look up from my knitting at first was when someone would say, 'Ohhh, look, He fell . . ."

The couple formed the professional ball club last year and purchased the Louisville franchise from the American Basketball Association.

"Now, the team's over the house all the time," Mamie said. "We're very close. It's more fun that way."

Gregory has lost $100,000 in the venture so far. He says he's not worried.

Ziggy started to snore fitfully.

Mamie, whose senator-father allowed her to travel around the world seven times in lieu of long years in boarding schools, announced she had a special trip to make that day.

Donning the mink over her jeans, she sneaked past Ziggy to the front door.

Some store was having a sale on something or other.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Going away on a trip, even a short one, involves a surprising amount of preparation. First there are the plants. As any plant owner knows, they do best with a mother's care. Some must be watered daily; the Jerusalem cherry, the African violet, the pink azalea, blooming miraculously after a summer in the garden. The cactuses don't need much water, but if they feel too dry, they could do with a little drink. The window boxes with begonias — once a week maybe; the upstairs windows full of geraniums waiting to be put out when warm weather comes, perhaps twice a week for these. If they need it.

That is the problem. Plants demand independent judgment and a little finger poking. Will the faithful young man who comes every day and means to do well by the plants—will he guess right? When the plant mother comes home, her progeny on the window sills are likely, for some reason, to look neglected. If not over cared for.

The power may go off while we are away. If it does, the modest freezer will need attention. The aforesaid plants will not like it. The pipes may freeze. If we were home we could leave the water running. If we are away... Let's hope the power does not go off.

We know the telephone will ring often. That polite female voice which announces "long distance calling" will not get a chance to do her stuff. Poor girl, what a disappointment for her. The friends who would like to stop by, the other friends who want us to dine, the committee that is meeting, the eager souls who want to sell us a subscription to another magazine — all will be frustrated. We shall not get the opportunity to say we hate magazines and have more than we want already. Poor unanswered telephone.

The mail will pile up. A bushel basket, two bushel baskets, of what we call flat mail, hard to burn, not worth looking at, in addition to the precious first-class letters. Letters from friends we have not heard from in months; letters from family who do not know we are away; bills, but we won't think about them; dear letters containing checks. The daily paper, piling up and up. We shall spend hours with the mail when we get back.

Finally there is the cat. We take him to the Vet to board. He cries all the way there. Poor cat. Although the Vet is kind to him and provides the pork liver which is his daily treat, he is in a cage, nobody comes to scratch his neck, dogs in other cages bark not at him but at the world in general. When he comes home again he turns his back on his people. His feelings are hurt at having been left so long. But there is one good thing: the canned food he was very choosy about before he left seems fine to him. His appetite is enormous. If permitted, he would go out and eat six red squirrels in a row.

Going on a trip. So many things to think about, in addition to the most perplexing of all, what clothes to take? Will it rain? Will the hot climate really be hot? Shall we need a top coat? Of course, no rubbers.

There is no doubt about it, it is simpler to stay home.

The Mature Parent

NOW WOMAN IS LOVED JUST FOR HERSELF ALONE

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Of all the lovers Shakespeare writes about, the one who sends me is King Henry V—that Prince Hal who roistered, wenched, and generally misbehaved himself until kingship came to him and overnight turned him into a man.

You may remember him as the hero of Agincourt and wooer of his defeated enemy's daughter, Princess Katharine of France. And if you want to know why I adore him, I'll tell you. Because he made no slightest attempt to convince the pretty lady that he loved her for herself alone. He made it clear that his love for her included love for her possessions—the towns and provinces of France. "For I love France so well," said he, "that I will not part with a village of it. I will have it all mine. And Kate, when France is mine . . . you are mine."

That straight-talking beauty of a man is my answer to the lady who, on handsome notepaper, writes me: My husband is a very successful advertising executive. But lately I've begun to feel that he does not love me for myself but for my talents as a homemaker and hostess to his clients. We have two lovely children to whom he is devoted. But a woman wants more from a man than appreciation of what she does to advance his career . . ."

You're telling me, you know, that you want to be loved for yourself alone.

Well nobody is—not even babies. Even babies have to give us a smile or two before we really love them. So I don't know what you're fussing about. If your husband appreciates your talents as a mother, a homemaker and hostess, then he appreciates you. These are your possessions just as the provinces of France were the possessions of that princess and were desired along with her by the king of England.

Maybe the trouble is that, unlike him, your husband hasn't said so. But then American husbands are not Henry of England. They're not brave enough to tell us that they just can't love us for ourselves alone.

They're too scared we'll fall apart if they say, "Look, I love you, but I am also crazy about those talents and other possessions of yours which help to advance my career." Most of them don't even know that they marry us for reasons other than romantic love. And that gets everybody off on the wrong foot inasmuch as all love, this side of heaven, contains some self-interest.

Young Moderns Light Up Your Own

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Newspaper scraps, a balloon and starch may put a new kind of light in your life. The lamp that evolves from your do-it-yourself efforts can be made to resemble the new ball lights or cut to look like a hanging Tiffany shade, 1968 model.

If you want a hanging lamp, you'll need a hanging light cord. The ball-on-pedestal type lamps require a small fixture that may be hidden by a base. An old short-base lamp may be good for this.

Papier-mache paste is made by mixing a cup of cold water and a cup of instant laundry starch.

Here's how you go about it:

Round shade—Blow up a balloon. Tie it. Set it in a box or tape it in place so that it won't slide as you work on it. Tear newspaper into small pieces and coat the bits with the starch paste, covering the entire balloon with paper scraps, overlapping pieces for strength. Teo or three layers are needed for a strong shade. Added strength may be provided by making the first layer out of scraps of rice paper that you can find in craft and hobby shops.

Let the shade dry overnight. When it seems to be thoroughly dry, pierce the balloon or simply open it. Gradually, let the air escape and pull the balloon carefully away from the shade.

If there isn't enough room to slip a light fixture through the opening left by the balloon, make it larger. Be sure a bulb has plenty of room so that it is not touching the sides of your shade.

Round shade base: Take an old low lamp base and enclose it, making a box-shaped pedestal of wood. Your light ball can then be pasted directly over the bulb and fastened to the pedestal.

Tiffany shade—Blow up balloon as above, putting a chalk line around the length you desire. Layer rice paper and colored tissue above it, using various colored tissue scraps to make flower petals or other patterns. To hang this shade, make a small hole on top and hang a light cord through it. Tape cord to top of the shade when it has been adjusted to the right length. Ask someone to attach the light fixture.

String ball—This can be a very pretty hanging light with its see-through effects. Soak cord in starch solution and wrap it around and around a balloon, criss-crossing it to form a pretty pattern. Leave one end uncovered so that a light fixture can be slipped through after balloon is removed.

All sorts of effects may be achieved with this basic idea. You can go pop, psychedelic, traditional. Put your imagination to work and you may be surprised at your own ingenuity.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

American families have spent an increased amount of money but a smaller proportion of their incomes on food during the past 10 years. A recent national survey of household food consumption conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that the typical homemaker used $27.83 worth of food, excluding alcoholic beverages, in one week of 1965 compared with $24.44 in 1955, an increase of 14 per cent.

Much of the increased spending during the 10-year period can be attributed to a raise in the overall cost of food. But some of the increase came about because homemakers chose more expensive food, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Economist.

Food dollar bought much the same foods. Broadly speaking, the food dollar was divided in much the same way in 1965 as in 1955. Differences were slight in the proportion of food money that homemakers allotted to different categories of food. A comparison of how the food dollar was divided follows:

Food group	Cents spent in 1955	Cents spent in 1965
Meat	25	28
Poultry and eggs	9	7
Fish	3	3
Fruits, vegetables	19	19
Dairy products	16	13
Flour, cereal, bakery products	11	12
Beverages	6	6
Fats and oils	4	4
Sugars and sweets	3	3
All other	4	5
Totals	100	100

The principal changes were an increase in the proportion of the food dollar going to red meats and grain products and a decrease in the proportion going to poultry and eggs and dairy products.

Striking changes occur within some food groups. In response to shifts in prices, preferences, and incomes, the changes that occurred within the broad food groups were striking. For example, in the meat group, beef consumption rose 31 per cent despite climbing prices, and the money spent for beef increased 56 per cent in the past 10 years. Americans prefer beef and can better afford to buy it.

Poultry consumption also gained sharply during the decade probably because prices declined, but prices declined enough that less of the food dollar was spent on it. Egg use, on the other hand, was down despite sharp price drops.

Shift to processed food continues. Although the per cent of the food dollar going to fruits and vegetables remained the same in the survey decade, many changes have taken place within the group. Some of these changes reflect a shift to food requiring less home preparation. Money spent on fresh fruit has declined whereas that spent on frozen concentrated and chilled juices has increased markedly. Similar shifts were noted from fresh to frozen and canned vegetables and from fresh to processed potatoes. Among grain products shoppers shifted from flour and mixes to purchased bakery products that require less preparation time at home but are more expensive.

Snack-type foods gain sharply. One of the most dramatic gains has taken place within the beverage category. Money spent on soft drinks has nearly doubled while that spent on drinks, punches and ades has increased more than seven times. This may be related to the increased proportion of teen-agers in our population, to the popularity of television, to the growth of machine vending, and to an increase in the amount of money available to spend on non-essential foods.

Heiress Living a Dog's Life

By JUDY PRUSNEK

SIMPSONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — What does an heiress do with the $5 bill her husband hands her each Monday for spending money?

Mamie Spears Reynolds Gregory, 25, sat in her $100,000 Civil War-era plantation home and pointed to her $1 shoes, $2 jeans, $12 sweater and dimestore earrings.

"Most of the money goes for cigarettes, so I've become quite a bargain hunter," she explained.

Mamie's fortune, left her from great-grandfather John McLean's gold and silver mines in Colorado and the Reynolds family tobacco interests, totaled $40 million when she eloped with Kentucky dog-handler Joe Greggory three years ago.

"Joe and I made this deal when we married," she said. "He'd handle all the money. I knew I'd go through it all if he didn't.

"He's really a marvelous tight-wad; I started with $10 a week . . .",

Now, 27 pedigreed dogs, two yachts, several homes in Asheville, N.C., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a professional basketball team and a 15-month-old son named Charles later, Mamie said she doesn't know how much is in the till and doesn t much care.

"I wear a Timex watch but it doesn't mean I don't have jewelry. Some rings and watches and stuff worth thousands are still locked up in a New York vault."

As Mamie sees it, you "just can't knock around dog shows in family heirlooms."

Ziggy, a rather hairy Brussels Griffon, pitter-patted into the room after napping on Mamie's mink coat.

"We're just plain folks here," she said. "I live for my dogs."

The daughter of the late U.S. Senator and Mrs Robert Rice Reynolds of North Carolina has been showing dogs since the age of 8. Her 35-year-old husband from Cloverport, Ky., has been doing the same for the past 18 years.

The two met at a show in Asheville. It was not love at first sight and Mamie married a young Italian racing driver, Luigi Chinette, during one of her trips abroad in 1962. They were divorced three years later.

The dog shows, meanwhile, continued back in the United States.

"Joe and I had so much in common," Mamie said.

What she calls her "dog's life" is one reason the slim blonde isn't comfortable yet in her century-old Shelby County mansion, with its polar bear rug, gold-plated bathroom fixtures, giant paintings and antique chandeliers.

"The decorator wouldn't let me put my 400 dog trophies out," she said. "She called them 'cheap silver.'

"I never told her about Joe's 200 trophies in the garage. Had to hide the dog books, too.

"As soon as she left, I tossed out the fashionable magazines she had placed on all the tables. Who reads them? Not our dog crowd.

"We re not much on entertaining."

Mamie said only close friends would put up with Ziggy in his tuxedo at the dinner table anyway.

"Ziggy's my favorite. He's been the top griffon in the country for three years now.

"We even bought him a mink parka for the Kentucky Colonels games."

Mamie didn't always like basketball.

"The only time I'd look up from my knitting at first was when someone would say, 'Ohhh, look. He fell . . ."

The couple formed the professional ball club last year and purchased the Louisville franchise from the American Basketball Association.

"Now, the team's over the house all the time," Mamie said. "We're very close. It's more fun that way."

Gregory has lost $100,000 in the venture so far. He says he's not worried.

Ziggy started to snore fitfully.

Mamie, whose senator-father allowed her to travel around the world seven times in lieu of long years in boarding schools, announced she had a special trip to make that day.

Donning the mink over her jeans, she sneaked past Ziggy to the front door.

Some store was having a sale on something or other.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Going away on a trip, even a short one, involves a surprising amount of preparation. First there are the plants. As any plant owner knows, they do best with a mother's care. Some must be watered daily; the Jerusalem cherry, the African violet, the pink azalea, blooming miraculously after a summer in the garden. The cactuses don't need much water, but if they feel too dry, they could do with a little drink. The window boxes with begonias — once a week maybe; the upstairs windows full of geraniums waiting to be put out when warm weather comes, perhaps twice a week for these. If they need it.

That is the problem. Plants demand independent judgment and a little finger poking. Will the faithful young man who comes every day and means to do well by the plants—will he guess right? When the plant mother comes home, her progeny on the window sills are likely, for some reason, to look neglected. If not over cared for.

The power may go off while we are away. If it does, the modest freezer will need attention. The aforesaid plants will not like it. The pipes may freeze. If we were home we could leave the water running. If we are away... Let's hope the power does not go off.

We know the telephone will ring often. That polite female voice which announces "long distance calling" will not get a chance to do her stuff. Poor girl, what a disappointment for her. The friends who would like to stop by, the other friends who want us to dine, the committee that is meeting, the eager souls who want to sell us a subscription to another magazine — all will be frustrated. We shall not get the opportunity to say we hate magazines and have more than we want already. Poor unanswered telephone.

The mail will pile up. A bushel basket, two bushel baskets, of what we call flat mail, hard to burn, not worth looking at, in addition to the precious first-class letters. Letters from friends we have not heard from in months; letters from family who do not know we are away; bills, but we won't think about them; dear letters containing checks. The daily paper, piling up and up. We shall spend hours with the mail when we get back.

Finally there is the cat. We take him to the Vet to board. He cries all the way there. Poor cat. Although the Vet is kind to him and provides the pork liver which is his daily treat, he is in a cage, nobody comes to scratch his neck, dogs in other cages bark not at him but at the world in general. When he comes home again he turns his back on his people. His feelings are hurt at having been left so long. But there is one good thing: the canned food he was very choosy about before he left seems fine to him. His appetite is enormous. If permitted, he would go out and eat six red squirrels in a row.

Going on a trip. So many things to think about, in addition to the most perplexing of all, what clothes to take? Will it rain? Will the hot climate really be hot? Shall we need a top coat? Of course, no rubbers.

There is no doubt about it, it is simpler to stay home.

The Mature Parent

NOW WOMAN IS LOVED JUST FOR HERSELF ALONE

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Of all the lovers Shakespeare writes about, the one who sends me is King Henry V—that Prince Hal who roistered, wenched, and generally misbehaved himself until kingship came to him and overnight turned him into a man.

You may remember him as the hero of Agincourt and wooer of his defeated enemy's daughter, Princess Katharine of France. And if you want to know why I adore him, I'll tell you. Because he made no slightest attempt to convince the pretty lady that he loved her for herself alone. He made it clear that his love for her included love for her possessions—the towns and provinces of France. "For I love France so well," said he, "that I will not part with a village of it. I will have it all mine. And Kate, when France is mine . . . you are mine."

That straight-talking beauty of a man is my answer to the lady who, on handsome notepaper, writes me: My husband is a very successful advertising executive. But lately I've begun to feel that he does not love me for myself but for my talents as a homemaker and hostess to his clients. We have two lovely children to whom he is devoted. But a woman wants more from a man than appreciation of what she does to advance his career . . ."

You're telling me, you know, that you want to be loved for yourself alone.

Well nobody is—not even babies. Even babies have to give us a smile or two before we really love them. So I don't know what you're fussing about. If your husband appreciates your talents as a mother, a homemaker and hostess, then he appreciates you. These are your possessions just as the provinces of France were the possessions of that princess and were desired along with her by the king of England.

Maybe the trouble is that, unlike him, your husband hasn't said so. But then American husbands are not Henry of England. They're not brave enough to tell us that they just can't love us for ourselves alone.

They're too scared we'll fall apart if they say, "Look. I love you, but I am also crazy about those talents and other possessions of yours which help to advance my career." Most of them don't even know that they marry us for reasons other than romantic love. And that gets everybody off on the wrong foot inasmuch as all love, this side of heaven, contains some self-interest.

Young Moderns Light Up Your Own

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Newspaper scraps, a balloon and starch may put a new kind of light in your life. The lamp that evolves from your do-it-yourself efforts can be made to resemble the new ball lights or cut to look like a hanging Tiffany shade, 1968 model.

If you want a hanging lamp, you'll need a hanging light cord. The ball-on-pedestal type lamps require a small fixture that may be hidden by a base. An old short-base lamp may be good for this.

Papier-mache paste is made by mixing a cup of cold water and a cup of instant laundry starch.

Here's how you go about it:

Round shade—Blow up a balloon. Tie it. Set it in a box or tape it in place so that it won't slide as you work on it. Tear newspaper into small pieces and coat the bits with the starch paste, covering the entire balloon with paper scraps, overlapping pieces for strength. Teo or three layers are needed for a strong shade. Added strength may be provided by making the first layer out of scraps of rice paper that you can find in craft and hobby shops.

Let the shade dry overnight. When it seems to be thoroughly dry, pierce the balloon or simply open it. Gradually, let the air escape and pull the balloon carefully away from the shade.

If there isn't enough room to slip a light fixture through the opening left by the balloon, make it larger. Be sure a bulb has plenty of room so that it is not touching the sides of your shade.

Round shade base: Take an old low lamp base and enclose it, making a box-shaped pedestal of wood. Your light ball can then be pasted directly over the bulb and fastened to the pedestal.

Tiffany shade—Blow up balloon as above, putting a chalk line around the length you desire. Layer rice paper and colored tissue above it, using various colored tissue scraps to make flower petals or other patterns. To hang this shade, make a small hole on top and hang a light cord through it. Tape cord to top of the shade when it has been adjusted to the right length. Ask someone to attach the light fixture.

String ball—This can be a very pretty hanging light with its see-through effects. Soak cord in starch solution and wrap it around and around a balloon, criss-crossing it to form a pretty pattern. Leave one end uncovered so that a light fixture can be slipped through after balloon is removed.

All sorts of effects may be achieved with this basic idea. You can go pop, psychedelic, traditional. Put your imagination to work and you may be surprised at your own ingenuity.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

American families have spent an increased amount of money but a smaller proportion of their incomes on food during the past 10 years. A recent national survey of household food consumption conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that the typical homemaker used $27.83 worth of food, excluding alcoholic beverages, in one week of 1965 compared with $24.44 in 1955, an increase of 14 per cent.

Much of the increased spending during the 10-year period can be attributed to a raise in the overall cost of food. But some of the increase came about because homemakers chose more expensive food, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Economist.

Food dollar bought much the same foods. Broadly speaking, the food dollar was divided in much the same way in 1965 as in 1955. Differences were slight in the proportion of food money that homemakers allotted to different categories of food. A comparison of how the food dollar was divided follows:

Food group	Cents spent in 1955	Cents spent in 1965
Meat	25	28
Poultry and eggs	9	7
Fish	3	3
Fruits, vegetables	19	19
Dairy products	16	13
Flour, cereal, bakery products	11	12
Beverages	6	6
Fats and oils	4	4
Sugars and sweets	3	3
All other	4	5
Totals	100	100

The principal changes were an increase in the proportion of the food dollar going to red meats and grain products and a decrease in the proportion going to poultry and eggs and dairy products.

Striking changes occur within some food groups. In response to shifts in prices, preferences, and incomes, the changes that occurred within the broad food groups were striking. For example, in the meat group, beef consumption rose 31 per cent despite climbing prices, and the money spent for beef increased 56 per cent in the past 10 years. Americans prefer beef and can better afford to buy it.

Poultry consumption also gained sharply during the decade probably because prices declined, but prices declined enough that less of the food dollar was spent on it. Egg use, on the other hand, was down despite sharp price drops.

Shift to processed food continues. Although the per cent of the food dollar going to fruits and vegetables remained the same in the survey decade, many changes have taken place within the group. Some of these changes reflect a shift to food requiring less home preparation. Money spent on fresh fruit has declined whereas that spent on frozen concentrated and chilled juices has increased markedly. Similar shifts were noted from fresh to frozen and canned vegetables and from fresh to processed potatoes. Among grain products shoppers shifted from flour and mixes to purchased bakery products that require less preparation time at home but are more expensive.

Snack-type foods gain sharply. One of the most dramatic gains has taken place within the beverage category. Money spent on soft drinks has nearly doubled while that spent on drinks, punches and ades has increased more than seven times. This may be related to the increased proportion of teen-agers in our population, to the popularity of television, to the growth of machine vending, and to an increase in the amount of money available to spend on non-essential foods.

Parks, Anniversary On High Falls Agenda

A variety of community problems and projects will be discussed at the next meeting of the High Falls Civic Association, April 24, at 8 p.m. at the High Falls Fire hall.

Among the subjects scheduled to be taken up are plans for the planting of trees along Route 213, an outline for the development of newly-acquired Grady Park, and further steps in the continuing dialogue between the village and the state concerning directional signs designating High Falls. The Civic Association claims signs are necessary; the state says they are not.

Plans for the annual antique show to take place August 23 and 24 will also be firmed, and further proposals for the 300th anniversary celebration of the founding of High Falls will be told.

All who live in the High Falls postal district including residents of Alligerville and High Falls Park are automatically members of the group. There are no dues.

Citizens Plan Rondout School Budget Talks

The 1968-1969 proposed Rondout Valley School Budget, will be the subject of discussion at the next meeting of the Marbletown Citizen's Organization Thursday April 18 at 7:30 in the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Every member of the community has been mailed a copy of the budget which will be voted on, on May 7, at the annual meeting, in the Rondout Valley High School Auditorium, at 8 p. m.

At the request of the Marbletown Citizens, this year for the first time the Rondout Valley Central Schools Board of Education approved Permanent Personal Registration. Under this new procedure, anyone who wishes to be eligible to vote on the school budget must register. The dead line for registration is April 30, at 9 p. m.

Registration is being conducted at the elementary schools from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. each day school is in session. Also on Saturday morning, April 27 from 9 a. m. to noon. And on Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 29 and 30 from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Once registered a voters registration will be in effect so long as he votes in at least one or two consecutive years in a school election. Failure to vote two straight years, requires re-registration to establish eligibility.

Parks, Anniversary On High Falls Agenda

A variety of community problems and projects will be discussed at the next meeting of the High Falls Civic Association, April 24, at 8 p.m. at the High Falls Fire hall.

Among the subjects scheduled to be taken up are plans for the planting of trees along Route 213, an outline for the development of newly-acquired Grady Park, and further steps in the continuing dialogue between the village and the state concerning directional signs designating High Falls. The Civic Association claims signs are necessary; the state says they are not.

Plans for the annual antique show to take place August 23 and 24 will also be firmed, and further proposals for the 300th anniversary celebration of the founding of High Falls will be told.

All who live in the High Falls postal district including residents of Alligerville and High Falls Park are automatically members of the group. There are no dues.

Citizens Plan Rondout School Budget Talks

The 1968-1969 proposed Rondout Valley School Budget, will be the subject of discussion at the next meeting of the Marbletown Citizens Organization Thursday April 18 at 7:30 in the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

Every member of the community has been mailed a copy of the budget which will be voted on, on May 7, at the annual meeting, in the Rondout Valley High School Auditorium, at 8 p. m.

At the request of the Marbletown Citizens, this year for the first time the Rondout Valley Central Schools Board of Education approved Permanent Personal Registration. Under this new procedure, anyone who wishes to be eligible to vote on the school budget must register. The dead line for registration is April 30, at 9 p. m.

Registration is being conducted at the elementary schools from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. each day school is in session. Also on Saturday morning, April 27 from 9 a. m. to noon. And on Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 29 and 30 from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Once registered a voters registration will be in effect so long as he votes in at least one or two consecutive years in a school election. Failure to vote two straight years, requires re-registration to establish eligibility.

Clergy's Views on Grace

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A housewife recently asked who should say the grace when a clergyman is a guest at the table. She wondered if a clergyman would feel "put to work" if he were asked, or would he feel slighted if he weren't. Count me as one Presbyterian minister who would prefer to pray along, while my host recites the blessing. I sometime suspect that the family is not accustomed to saying grace (some may not even know how) but they feel it should be said because I am present. In that case, if I am asked to "lead the prayer," I proceed without delay to save embarrassment.

CHICAGO MINISTER

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I certainly do not feel slighted if this honor does not come to me. A clergyman has no more influence with that Lord than the business man host who sits across the table from him.

H.C.W., D.D. (Associate Minister Emeritus) PARK AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH, N.Y.C.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: After 41 years as a pastor, I concede to the wishes of the host. If he asks me to give the thanks, I do. If he offers the thanks, I thank God that here is a man who is taking his rightful place as the head of his house, and I pray that more men would do likewise.

Sincerely, W.H.S.
(PORTLAND, ORE.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: According to the Orthodox Jewish Law the host offers the benediction (blessing at the end of the meal should preferably be led by a guest, since it gives him the opportunity to bless the host in his prayer.

L. M. K. (DOVER, N.J.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For a host to ask a clergyman to say grace at a meal when the host normally does not, is hypocrisy, not courtesy.

REV. D. N., FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF WESTERLO, N.Y.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I say the minister should always be asked to say the grace. As a minister, I have been humiliated on more than one occasion by being treated as an ordinary guest. Very truly yours,

* * *

P. E. I. (MARTINSVILLE, VA.)

DEAR ABBY: I don't care WHO says "grace" before a meal, but whoever says it should say it with sincerity. I have heard people race thru the grace with such speed that it means nothing.

Opening lead—♣ 2

South's three diamond opening in this U.S. Aces practice game was effective in shutting Bobby Wolff and Mike Lawrence out of the bidding. It was just as well that it did because if South had just passed, the best East and West could make would be a part score.

South was unlucky to find a dummy without any trumps and it would have been a cinch for Bobby and Mike to set him three tricks; but our team is trying for perfection in both bidding and defense and they managed to set South a fourth trick.

Bobby made his normal opening lead of the deuce of clubs—fourth best of his longest suit. Mike's king forced South's ace and South played ace and another diamond. Bobby was in with the jack and noted that Mike had played the eight and then the four. This high-low is known as an echo, and a trump echo shows an odd number of trumps, thus Bobby knew his partner still held a trump. He was also sure from the bidding that South wasn't going to show up with the ace of spades, so Bobby led his deuce of that suit. Mike was in with the ace and played jack and another club.

This put Bobby in again and he played his ace of hearts. This gave Mike a chance to make the key play. He dropped his nine of hearts!

Just to keep bridge a simple game, the trump echo is used to show an odd number; the side suit echo either to show strength in the suit or an even number of cards.

Mike couldn't be showing strength. Dummy held the king-queen. He had to be showing an even number and that number had to be four. This meant that South's distribution was 2-1-7-3 and Bobby had a blueprint. He cashed his ace of hearts and led his fourth club. Mike ruffed with the queen of trumps and South was down four.

"Big trees? Why out our way they felled a hollow tree over a ravine that was too deep and would cost too much to build a bridge across. One day when I was comin' through this tree-bridge with a load of hay I met another man with a load of hay coming through the other end. I couldn't go back or go ahead, so I just backed into a hollow branch and let the other fellow go past me."

Sea Turtles: Weak, But Good

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The reproduction process of the lumbering green sea turtle, which often travels 1,000 miles to the off-Africa island of Europa to lay its eggs, is awesome and interesting. And interesting too, are the little one-man submarines built to order for Jacques Cousteau and his band of seafaring explorers.

Drama-Filled at Times

ABC put them both together in a special program Monday night. The result was the weakest of the Cousteau undersea series to date, but it was still a fascinating and at times a drama-filled hour.

The spawning habits of this huge creature weighing upward of 400 pounds and which lays as many as 500 eggs in a season, are not exactly mysteries. But Cousteau and his underwater photographers were able to follow them around the sea floor as well as up on the beaches as the females struggled over the sand to drop their eggs.

Most interesting portion of the hour was the hatching of the young turtles and their furious struggle to make their way back to the protective sea. The drama was supplied by the hovering and sinister frigate birds who picked off the unproctected young turtles at such a rate that often there is not a single survivor in an original clutch of 100 eggs.

Still Superior Program

The submarines were interesting additions to the Cousteau underwater equipment, but there was a rather phony drama built up in the series involving what was alleged to be their initial tryouts. The program, third in the series, lacked the magnificent and unusual undersea photography of the others, but even with its shortcomings, it was a superior program.

Later in the evening, "I Spy" on NBC wound up its three-year life as a pleasant gay series, starring two jaunty if highly unlikely secret agents in Robert Culp and Bill Cosby. The wind-up show was a rather silly tale spun out against the sunny background of Acapulco.

As Scott and Kelly, leaning casually against some colorful drying fishnets, faded into the television sunset, there was never a farewell, never a hint that they had just concluded their final caper, engaged in their last bit of giddy dialogue. Oh sure, they'll be around for months in the hot weather reruns, but the episode was the last show made.

Timely Quotes

The white man here (in Memphis) will tell you he will give the Negro the shirt off his back, and he will. But the Negro doesn't want his shirt. He wants a decent living so he can buy his own shirt.

Nixon and the 'Come On In' Approach

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's likely challenge for the Republican presidential nomination is disturbing Richard M. Nixon, the former vice president is concealing it with a "come on in" public stance.

Charles McWhorter, a top Nixon lieutenant, said in an interview Nixon believes a Rockefeller candidacy would revive public interest in the Republican convention.

"It certainly will liven things up," said McWhorter.

Most of the starch went out of the GOP contest when Michigan Gov. George Romney withdrew and Rockefeller subsequently announced he would not become an active candidate for the nomination but would accept a draft.

The New York governor and Nixon will match major speeches before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington this week. The New York governor's appearance is being touted as a sort of unofficial reentry into the nomination race.

On the Democratic side of the race, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy got back into campaign harness today after a long Easter weekend with a visit to Charleston, W. Va.

McCarthy's chief rival, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., scored heavily with predominantly Negro crowds in Gary, Ind., Monday. Kennedy was also well received when he dropped in on Fargo, N.D., for a speech Monday night, though many young people who turned out to see him were jiggling McCarthy banners.

And in St. Louis, where 17 of the nation's 24 Democratic governors met to size up the political situation, they were unable Monday even to agree on a resolution expressing support in advance for the party's presidential nominee, whoever he may be.

The Iowa State Republican Convention, which began meeting today to pick a delegate slate, may give some line on how much latent support there is for Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Representatives of Rockefeller and Reagan are pulling for an uninstructed delegation. Nixon wants the 24-vote slate pledged to him.

While Nixon's forces consider Rockefeller their biggest threat, they are not taking their eyes off Reagan. Expected to have California's 86 convention votes as a favorite son, Reagan has said he is not a serious contender for the nomination.

Nevertheless, he sent F. Clifton White, a 1964 delegate hunter for Barry Goldwater, to Iowa to look out for his interests there.

White told the members of Reagan's favorite-son delegation in Los Angeles Monday that the governor is a leading contender for the nomination and would win in a wide-open convention.

Resnick Vs. the RFK Trend: Can Joe Reverse the Tide?

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Will all the way with LBJ, a winning slogan in 1964, now become all the way with RFK after the president's announcement that he would not seek nor accept the Democratic nomination for a second term.

Democratic candidates, among them Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville, are faced with that decision. For Resnick, there appears to be no choice. The two-term Democratic Congressman, seeking the nomination against Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson to run against incumbent Republican Jacob K. Javits, has indeed gone all the way with LBJ and all the way against RFK.

RFK is, of course, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, a presidential candidate, junior senator from New York and recognized leader of the Democratic Party in the Empire State.

Johnson's withdrawal created a vacuum early this month which is only recently beginning to be filled. James F. McCardle, Hurley Town Democratic chairman has come out for RFK and indications are that Plattekill and Warwarsing, (Resnick's home town) will also go for the senator.

Whether Resnick can reverse this apparant trend toward Kennedy is in some doubt. The Ellenville millionaire has not been considered an organization man. With his money, staff and ability to campaign long and hard he's been able to pursue an independent course.

However, Resnick's main spring of strength has been the President, either directly or indirectly. In 1964, Resnick was swept into office on a nationwide Johnson landslide. In 1966, Resnick faced a stern test against Hamilton Fish Jr. but a visit by President Johnson to Ellenville to dedicate a hospital and, incidentally, a few kind words for the congressional candidate, vaulted Resnick into a lead he never relinquished.

Resnick is well aware of just how tough Kennedy can be. Nickerson's nomination is a good example. The Long Islander's name was advanced only 24 hours before the Democratic convention in New York and he wound up beating Resnick by better than 2-1.

Resnick is currently vacationing in Puerto Rico and will return to the political wars Friday. He and his close friend and political ally Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Ulster County Democratic chairman, face the almost impossible task of stopping a well-financed, well-staffed Kennedy bandwagon.

However Resnick is not one to be easily counted out. He's faced the "impossible" before and come out on top.

Mono and Tumor Link Possible

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — There may be a positive link between infectious mononucleosis, widely known as the kissing disease, and a malignant tumor which is quite common in Africa but rare in the United States.

That was the report today by Dr. Julius S. Horoszewicz of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.

If the link, a virus, is established definitely, it will be the first time that a virus has been indicted as a cause of cancer-type disease in humans.

The virus has already been shown by other researchers to be associated with infectious mononucleosis, usually not a severe disease that causes fever, chills, general bad feeling fatigue and sometimes headache and chest pain.

Researchers have shown that the virus reacts with protective antibodies from humans who have already had the kissing disease, the Roswell Park report said. The reaction is the same as an infecting virus would produce in a vaccinated person, indirect evidence that the virus causes infectious mononucleosis.

The New York researcher, associated with Dr. James T. Grace Jr., and Dr. Virginia C. Dunkel, gave his report to the Federation of American Societies for Experiment at a meeting here.

They found that the same virus associated with infectious mononucleosis is the one often seen under the electron microscope in tissue samples of Burkitt lymphoma, the malignant tumor frequently seen in Africa.

The Roswell Park studies indicate that in the test tube the virus can affect certain cells in a variety of ways—ranging from a mild chronic infection to a lethan infection.

There have been only some 20 cases of Burkitt's lymphoma in the United States.

Berlin Battle Still Rages With Leftists

By HANS METZING

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Police battled leftist demonstrators in the streets around the Axel Springer publishing plants in Frankfurt and Munich Monday night as thousands of students tried to prevent distribution of today's newspapers.

More than 150 demonstrators were arrested as student rioting spread to West Germany. Thirty demonstrators were reported seriously injured.

Free of Violence

West Berlin was free of student violence Monday for the first time since the attempted assassination there last Thursday of Rudi Dutschke, 28-year-old leader of the Socialist Student Federation, or SDS. But more than 2,000 West Berlin students held a nonviolent demonstration under the watchful eyes of police with water cannon.

Out of Danger

Dutschke, hospitalized with three bullet wounds, was reported out of immediate danger. A house painter accused of shooting him, 23-year-old Josef Bachmann, was wounded by the police who captured him and was reported in good condition at the same hospital.

Springer, the biggest newspaper and magazine publisher in continental Europe, has long been a target of leftist students because of his conservative editorial policy. The SDS claims attacks in the Springer papers on Germany's dissatisfied leftist students were an indirect incitement to the attack on Dutschke.

AP Photog

A casualty of Monday's fight at the Springer plant in Munich was Associated Press photographer Klaus Frings. He was in serious condition after being struck on the head by a stone during the fighting.

Four other persons were seriously injured and more than 100 arrested in Munich. Police said they found an incendiary device in a courtyard of the printing plant.

The battle in Frankfurt was joined after police moved from behind barbed wire barricades and tried to convoy about a dozen delivery trucks through a crowd of 5,000 blockading the printing plant.
